EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

An eighty foot bridge span fell into the Scioto river at Portsmouth, Ohio, on Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Daniel A. Wells, a Milwaukee millionaire, died last week, leaving $2,000,000, most of which goes to his wife.

The Legislature of Missouri have concluded not to pull down their Vest and have accordingly returned George C. Vest to the United States Senate

Grover Cleveland resigned the New York governorship with all the curtness of a boy who casts his old shoes away for a pair of new boots with red tops to them.

In searching for a man capable of delivering a suitable oration on the occasion of the dedication of the Washington Monument, all eyes turn toward James G. Blaine.

Chester county's Auditors-elect, on learning that their pay would be only $1 50 a day and that they would even have to pay their own expenses, refused to take the oath of office and went home in disgust.

The Mormons under a son of Brigham Young have invaded a State of Mexico. They will not seriously affect the civilization of that country, but we hope the "greasers" will give them a warm reception.

Merchants have the right to sell oleomargarine or butterine if they want to, but in each case the article should be called by its proper name and not palmed off on a delicately organized public for genuine butter.

No man who aspires to a seat in the new Cabinet has failed to record his endorsement of Mr. Cleveland's civil service letter. The snuff taken at Albany has excited the most comprehensive sneeze ever heard in this country.

The proceeds of the auction sale of pews in Beecher's church Tuesday evening footed up $28,036, a decrease of $6,736, or about 20 per cent. from last year. The illustrious mugwump admitted that they had a tight squeeze, but pulled through successfully.

A summing up of the books show that 1884 was not a prosperous year for railroads. Fifteen companies were foreclosed and forty-five went into the hands of receivers. There were built only four thousand miles of track by 166 companies.

Thos. Phelan, the man who was stabbed by dynamiters in New York City, was a Blaine Democrat. Perhaps, however, his political affiliations were not what inspired his enemies to endeavor to put him out of the way.

Representative Cox, of New York, has introduced a bill to make Lieutenant Greeley an Assistant Chief Signal officer with the rank of Colonel. Well, next to Grant, perhaps Greeley most deserves our acts of gratitude and benevolence.

There are forty women acting as cashiers of banks in Dakota. Not one of them has ever speculated, been short in her accounts or manifested the slightest hankering for the bracing atmosphere of Canada. All of which argues well for giving our girls a chance.

A San Francisco judge has decided that Chinese children born in this country are entitled to admission to the public schools, and reports state that his decision is creating a great sensation in that city. Had his decision been otherwise it would have created a great sensation in other parts of the country.

N. Y. "Herald's" Inconsistency.

Without perpetual inconsistency we suppose the New York Herald could not be the Herald—certainly not the Herald which it is, and always has been. So far as gathering and publishing the general news of this country, and important news and matters of interest of foreign countries, it must be acknowledged that the Herald, both under the direction of its enterprising founder and his more enterprising son, has been a great and valuable newspaper.

But, when we come to consider its editorial ability, opinions, and influence, another question is presented. In the entire editorial fraternity, among leading politicians and statesmen, with the learned professional classes and the more intelligent of the reading public, there will be few found who will do reverence to the individual editorial character of the New York Herald.

That it has had upon its staff writers, journalists of ability and broad views, will be acknowledged, but these, under the policy of its management, have never been allowed freedom of expression upon the vital topics of the times. They have been compelled to run their articles in the grooves of popular prejudice, or to meet demands for sensation, or to answer the fitful moods and impulses of the proprietor. To be all things to all men is the big motor wheel of the Herald establishment. Of course, under such circumstances, what the Herald says or doesn't say, what or who it advocates of opposes, can have but slight influence upon the direction or results or national politics. Its advice is spoken like the order of a General, but is heeded like the antics of a buffoon.

Before any Presidential, election, or even an election for Mayor of New York, the Herald will nominate about a dozen of the leaders in each party, and then, when the real nomination is made it will claim the honor of having suggested and brought out that very man. This was its course in the late election. Its last candidate came finally to be its first favorite. Its independence was blazoned all over with Democracy. A little before the time of the Democratic nominating Convention the Herald made faces at and decried the Democratic party. Soon after this it put at the top of its flag staff the names of the Democratic candidates, and went through the campaign with a beligerent spirit equal to a genuine Ku-Klux rebel. Nothing but the re-establishment of the old Bourbon dynasty would save the country from utter ruin.

Such, but recently, was the color and measure of the New York Herald.

But how stands this shifting kaleidoscope at the present moment?

The following is copied from one of its editorials of last week:

"The Herald would say to the Democratic leaders:—"Gentlemen, you are coming into power in a very awkward way, for, while you have elected your President, you are not agreed among yourselves on any point of public policy whatever. You have two leaders in the House of Representatives, neither of whom could to-day carry any really important public measure without the opposition of the other, and the whole of the last session of Congress was frittered away and made ridiculous by your absolute incapacity as a party to think alike or vote together on any question on which any intelligent human being takes the trouble to think at all. By a curious and hardly to be expected piece of good fortune the outgoing administration offers you an opportunity which, if you have brains enough to use it, will solve all your difficulties. You do not and cannot agree on the tariff, or on the internal revenue, or on railroad legislation, or silver, or national banks, or even, it seems, on a Bankruptcy law, but in this Spanish Treaty and the Nicarauguan Canal Treaty you have offered to you two questions of the greatest importance to the country—issues of foreign policy on which there is no reason under heaven, except unconquerable stupidity, why your party should not agree unanimously."

"What are they thinking of? Do they forget that they are in a few weeks to rule? that they are no longer to be in the opposition? that they must quickly prepare to do something besides object? that the country which, by not a great majority, has trusted them with power, now waits to see what they will do with it? and that as the party in power—responsible for legislation, for the conduct of the government and for the future of the country—they cannot afford to continue that state of internal dissension which has made them ridiculous even when they were in the opposition? What are the Democratic leaders thinking of?"

Now, this is what the Herald thinks and says of the party for which it worked with such vehemence for months. The Democratic party had the same "awkward way," the same disagreement on "points of public policy," the same "absolute incapacity," the same "unconquerable stupidity," the same lack of "brains," during the Herald's championship of it, and before, as it now has, and the Herald knew all the time as fully as it now knows what kind of a party it was aiding to regain its lost hold upon the government of the United States.

It is no wonder the people laugh at the pretensious bombast of the New York Herald, and look upon its editorial department as a sort of side-show in American journalism.

Mr. Bennett is a very enterprising man in the matter of exploring expeditions. We would suggest that he should start some lynx-eyed explorer in search of the jewel of consistency in the files of the Herald. Success in such an expedition would prove a first class sensation.

Restore Grant to the Army.

We endorse every word of the following from the Baltimore Sun:

"The self-respecting view which General Grant takes of the private movement to relieve him from the financial embarrassments, brought upon him by misplaced confidence in the banking firm of which his son was a member, makes it imperative that the Nation should immediately take up a long-neglected duty. The bill to restore him to the army and transfer his name to the retired list, with the rank that was created for him, should be sent whirling through both Houses. There ought to be no danger of a veto from Arthur, but if one should come, the shame of that act would give Congress a chance to cover itself with greater glory by a unanimous nullification of the Executive's objection.

"It is worse than puerile to argue that because President Arthur vetoed a bill restoring Fitz John Porter to the army, he established a precedent that would govern his action in the case of General Grant. There is no similitude between the cases. One man is the undoubted savior of the Union; the other has not entirely convinced the people that he was not traitorously negligent of his duty at one of the most critical periods of the war. If he has been wrongfully punished he should have justice, of course, but to suspend justice in the case of General Grant until Porter can be righted would be to make the great Commander suffer a share or the evils resulting from the misfortune—if it be a misfortune—of his subordinate.

"Pass the bill."

The late Presidential election was the most unfortunate through which this country ever passed. It proved that slander and defamation of character are useful in winning a victory. Nothing of a slanderous nature was said of Cleveland, because all was true. But everything said that tended to injure Blaine was a slander and yet, to the surprise of all conscientious men, Blaine was defeated. This will have a bad effect on future campaigns.

Pig Iron North and South.

The Iron Age, commenting upon some of the loose statements made in the daily press relative to the progress of the iron trade in the South, gives some sober facts which the manufacturers in that section would do well to ponder over and which are alluded to in the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette as follows: It is pardonable, of course, for an enthusiastic newspaper writer to indulge his imagination with respect to the future of Northern Alabama, and to gravely assert the "Birmingham is aspiring to eclipse Pittsburg and even to emulate its great English namesake."

There is no harm in this, since there are good grounds for "booming the trade" in Northern Alabama and in other sections of the South, but when it is asserted that "there alone has there been continued prosperity and profit in iron in the last two years," and that "not only is the cost of production far below that of the Pennsylvania iron regions, but so low that nothing is feared from foreign competition and nothing is asked in the way of protection," the correspondent suffers his imagination to run away with better judgment.

It is a fact well known to the trade that notwithstanding the conditions for the manufacture of cheap pig iron exist in highest perfection in Northern Alabama, there has not been "continued prosperity and profit." On the other hand, quite a number of the furnaces' are idle simply because of the unremunerative condition of the pig iron trade. Some of the best plants in the South are either idle or have been for months past.

As to the boast that Southern manufacturers are not under the necessity of asking for "protection," the Iron Age reminds them that while foreign pig would not be sent to compete with the Southern product, it would be sent to points of consumption, and a considerable addition to the cost of the Southern pig would in that case have to be made for freight. The Southern furnace owners cannot depend upon a market for their product in their immediate vicinity, and must meet the foreign product in the Eastern market. "Would they get any part of the Eastern market if there was no duty on imported pig iron?" is the pregnant question which our contemporary submits for their consideration. As present they are enabled to compete in New England and some other localities with the pig iron makers of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but it is only because the duty on pig iron enables them to do so. Remove the duty, and the transportation and other advantages in favor of the English pig iron would drive the Southern producers out of the market.

A new use for electricity is now announced. It is said that in bodies in which life is not extinct, the temperature rises upon the application of an electric current and never in the case of actual death, and that this agent can be be used to determine the question of doubtful deaths, and relieve relatives of anxiety as to the fear of premature burial. In cases in which the usual signs of decay do not appear, a much surer way would be to wait for them, as they are sure to come, unless it may be in cases where revival is more feared than assurance of decease.

Gov. Pattison shows in his message that the expenses of the State government exceeded the receipts last year by $642,235. There was no deficit, however, because the year began with a large cash balance But the Governor don't inform us that his special session of the legislature cost about the amount of the deficiency. The money was spent and there is nothing to show for it, but the taxpayers will have to make up the deficiency.

When the messenger bearing the electoral vote of South Carolina arrived in Washington he found himself in the plight of the man whose trunk was locked with the key inside and no other key in existence that fit the lock. The law requires that the messenger shall bring credentials certifying that he is the person authorized to carry the electoral vote to Washington, and that he shall hand these to the Vice-President. But the South Carolina authorities placed the credentials and the statement concerning the electoral vote in one package and carefully sealed it up. As the package cannot be opened until the two House of Congress meet to count the vote, the Vice-president had to receive the South Carolina statement on trust. No amount of practice seems to insure care upon those who have the preparation of election returns.

Adulteration of various kinds of food has become so geneneral that few people can tell exactly what they eat with their daily meals. There is one article that almost everybody likes to have pure on the table, and that is butter; yet we are not sure even of this. Oleomargarine, butterine, and other compounds more or less vile, are beginning to take the place of pure butter, even—in small towns. These counterfeit productions are manufactured to a wonderful extent in Philadelphia. New York City and State for some time held the monopoly in these articles, but now they are extensively sold throughout Pennsylvania. We trust that our legislature will give some practical attention to this matter, and insist that these horrid compounds shall no longer be sold under the name of pure creamery butter.

Hagerstown, Maryland, has originated a new skating rink game, partaking of the characteristics of highly aristocratic tilts favored by the chivalry a degree or two further south. They call it the ham race. A ham is hung over the heads of the performers, just low enough to be touched by the fingers in passing. The skaters are then blindfolded and go for the ham, and he who excels in finding and touching it owns the ham. It is not the very highest type of intellectual amusement but certainly is an improvement on the Southern tournament.

From the fact that the Philadelphia Record growls at the "Eastern Pig Iron Association" for not including the farmers in its invitation to the industries, to meet for the organization of a "Protection Club," we may presume the long expected call has or is about to issue. The effect of the movement upon the Record ought be an incentive to prompt and vigorous organization, and earnest work of the club. If that thorough going Free Trade crank did not see danger in it to its pet craze it would not pitch its voice in so high a key.

One of the most noticeable exhibits at the New Orleans exposition is said to be the Mexican. Merchants in our neighboring republic are striving to produce a favorable impression upon our own merchants in order to develop commercial relations between the two countries. That Mexico offers a rich field for American enterprise every one who has given the matter attention is well aware. Some of our foremost capitalists have already taken the lead in opening trade which is destined to be very profitable.

In view of the announcement that 10,000 of the Pennsyvania militia will be present at Cleveland's inauguration, there seems to be the most urgent necessity for Colonel Henry Watterson to issue marching orders to his 100,000 Kentuckians.

All the poor of Naples who die on a certain day are buried on the same evening in a pit just outside the city, the innocent child being thrown in with the convict. A recent writer tells of seeing bodies brought by dozens to the pits naked on wheelbarrows the backs of their friends. On one occasion, after the lid of the pit had been closed, two corpses were found lying outside that had been missed by the workmen. To avoid opening the pit, they were left to be put into the one to be opened next day. In the morning, however, they were nowhere to be found, dogs during the night having eaten them up. Italy is put down on the map as a civilized country.

Poetry.

A MICHIGAN WRECK.

Stir up the fire and make it bright,
You want, my lads, a story true;
I took a cruise one summer night
On Michigan's waters blue.

The wind was fair up the lake,
The moon lit up the cheery deck,
When up the Captain sprang and spake:
"Bring to the ship! A wreck! a wreck!"

"Let down the life-boats, hearties, all!
Work with a will!" the Captain said,
"Ho! Ship ahoy!" rang out his call;
The wreck was silent as the dead.

All eyes were strained across the wave,
The mastless hulk was drawing near,
No voice from out that floating grave,
The Captain's cheek was pale with fear.

It rose between us and the sky,
Its gunwale blotted out the stars,
Across our bow it floated by,
It barely grazed the boom and bars.

"Keep her in sight!" the Captain said:
"And follow close up her wake!"
With topsail, jib and mainsail spread,
We bounded o'er the billowy lake.

Ah, then we prayed for morning light,
Each heart was filled with fear and dread,
As, through the silence and the night,
That shapeless craft before us sped.

The dawn lit up the eastern sky,
And blacker yet the dark hulk seemed,
Its strange form riveted each eye,
From stem to stern the sunlight gleamed.

And then, ay, then, the mystery past;
The wreck was a Chicago shoe;
The crew and Captain looked aghast—
A girl's size—medium—twenty-two.

A SOUVENIR.

"Un parfum, un viell air"
What is the mystic musky scent
That, like a faded sentiment,
Pervades this letter?
Ah me, it was so long ago!
The times have greatly changed, you know,
Since first I met her.

'Twas underneath the linden-tree,
When in the ball room we could see
The lamps gleam brightly.
I was of course all love and youth,
And she, to tell the sober truth,
My senior, slightly.

I felt the spell of those dark eyes,
Which glanced their eloquent replies
With subtle meaning;
And often since I've felt a thrill,
As though her drooping form were still
Upon me leaning.

I longed to be a knight of old—
A Bayard or a Charles the Bold—
I've no clear notion,
Save that in some heroic way
I yearned with ardor to display
My deep devotion.

Anon, when tortured by despair,
For lonely exile I'd prepare,
But still I tarried,
While time sped on with hasty stride;
In fact, I never left her side
Until—she married.

The times have altered, I repeat,
Since first I languished at her feet
And sued for pity.
I saw her but the other day
And found her, to my great dismay,
By no means pretty.

THE STAR SPANGLED COVERLID.

O, say can you see by the dawn's early light,
What you failed to perceive at the twilight's last gleaming;
A cranky concern that through the long night,
O'er the bed where you slept, was so saucily streaming?
The silk patches so fair,
Round, three-cornered and square,
Give proof that the lunatic bed-quilt is there.
O, the crazy quilt mania triumphantly raves,
And maid, wife and widow are bound as its slaves.

Our Story Teller.

A Miser's Dream.

Old miser Mitchel heard a knock upon his door, although he was half asleep at the time. It was such a rare event that he could not well miss hearing it. He did not stir, however, or even bid the one who was seeking admittance to come in.

"I wonder who's there," he growled. "Some beggar, of course—nobody only those who want my money ever come to see me."

Rap, rap, rap.

"I wish there was no such a thing as a beggar," he said in his rough unpleasant manner.

Then the door opened and the visitor walked in without any bidding. It was little Paul Kearns who entered—the boy who had sometimes done errands for the old man who was too lame to go out himself.

"I heard you speak so I came in, Mr. Mitchel," the boy said a little hesitatingly, as he noticed the scowl on the old man's face.

"Well, what do you want, young man? Did I not pay you for the last errand you did for me?"

"Oh, yes, you always pay me, but I want money for somebody else. Little Bessie Lee is sick and her mamma can not work out any more for she fell and broke her arm last week. I am trying to get some money for them, and the tender hearted little fellow grew bolder as he said this.

"Well, you had better be doing something else. What is it to you or to me if somebody is sick, and somebody else had an arm broken," and the old man scowled as fiercely as ever.

"But it is something to me, and something to you, Mr. Mitchel. If we can help people who are worse off than ourselves it is our duty to do so. You have lots of money, and you would never miss it if you should give lots of it away. Poor little baby Bessie. She cries and moans all the time, and I feel real sorry for her. I have carried her lots of cookies and oranges with the pennies that I have earned, and went without eating any myself."

"You are a little fool, Paul Kearns. Take care of yourself and don't be running after all the sick babies in the town. Suppose I should hunt up all the paupers in the neighborhood and try to take care of them."

"You would be a great deal better and happier man than you are now, Mr. Mitchel," the boy said, interrupting the old man.

The words spoken almost angrily touched the miser and he dropped his head before the wide-open flashing eyes of Paul. There was something in them that he did not care to meet.

"Yes, Mr. Mitchel, if you would give some of your money to the poor, suffering people all about, you would be a great deal happier than you are now."

"How do you know that I am not happy now?" asked the old man, in a lower voice.

"Because nobody can be happy shut up in this dismal-looking room. And you don't seem happy, Mr. Mitchel, and I dread even to look at you. I know that I am a great deal happier than you are, even though I have no home of my own, and get kicked and knocked about the streets pretty often. I can hear the birds sing and see the pretty flowers and walk out in the bright sunlight. These things make me happy, and then I am happy when I try to help others worse off than myself."

The old man did not answer, and he kept looking down upon the floor.

"Please give me something for poor Mrs. Lee and little Bessie," and Paul reached out his hand. The old miser placed his hands in his pocket and drew out some money, and then asked:

"How much do you want, sir?"

"Please give me a dollar, Mr. Mitchell," there was an eager hopefulness in the boy's voice.

"Here it is, take it. It is the first dollar I ever gave away in my life," and the usually rough voice was mellowed down so much that it sounded almost pleasant to Paul.

"Thank you, thank you, Mr. Mitchell," said the boy, as he caught at the coin. In a moment he was gone, and old miser Mitchell was alone again.

Again he rested in his chair and sleep came to him once more. He dreamed strange things as he slept there in his gloomy room. His life came up before him, and above it he could see the words all along the way, wasted—wasted years. Again, in his dreams, little Paul Kearns stood before him with his flashing eyes. He tried to drop his head, but he was powerless to do so. He tried to close his eyes, but his eyelids refused to go down. He sat transfixed before the noble boy who had learned the secret of true living and of being happy. Before him was a heap of shining dollars.

"Only one of them have you saved, Mr. Mitchell—only one of them is of any value to you—all the rest are worthless." As Paul said this the money gradually crumbled away save the one dollar that shone and glittered like the sun.

The old man awoke and was faint and dizzy. He tried to get upon his feet but was unable to do so. Then there came a feeling of numb exhaustion, and there was a blank in the old man's life.

Days passed before he could think rightly or hear and see. Then as consciousness feebly asserted its powers the old man became aware of the fact that some one was near him and caring for him. He tried to open his eyes and partly succeeded. He saw the boyish form of little Paul Kearns standing close by. It came to him in a moment, just how it was, and he reached out his hand toward the boy.

"God bless you, Paul," he said, and then he slept.

When he awoke he was better, and was soon able to talk with Paul without injury to himself.

"How long have I been sick?" he asked.

"Six weeks. I came in the same day that you gave me the dollar to tell you how happy Mrs. Lee and Bessie were when I gave them your offering, and I found you upon the floor and I thought you were dead. I ran for the doctor, and we got you upon the bed, and in a little while you showed signs of life. I took care of you, and did just as the doctor told me to."

"And how is Mrs. Lee and Bessie?" the old man asked.

"Bessie is better, but Mrs. Lee's arm has not got well enough so that she can work yet," Paul answered.

"Who takes care of them was the next inquiry.

"I told some kind ladies about them and they go two or three times a week to carry them food and to help them in other ways."

"I want you to carry some money right down to Mrs. Lee, and tell her that old miser Mitchel sent it to her. I'll not be called by that name after to-day," and the old man reached for his pocket-book.

"Here is a ten dollar bill for Mrs. Lee, and tell she shall not suffer any more." And the sick man lay back upon his pillow again.

"It will be a Christmas present for her," Paul said joyfully. "It is Christmas to-morrow."

"I had forgotten it," the sick man said.

When Paul returned after he carried the money to Mrs. Lee, he found another ten dollar bill upon the stand by the miser's bed. "It is to buy you a new suit of clothes for a Christmas present," the old man said.

"Now I've got more money to go with the one dollar that I first gave away," he said to himself. Soon I'll have as large a heap of dollars as I saw in my dream. And this money will never crumble away.

The old man moved away from the dismal room and purchased a beautiful house, and Paul Kearns lived in it with him. He gave freely to all who needed help and every year, as Christmas came, he had special gifts for all who needed help.—Mrs. M. A. Holt, in Baptist Weekly.

Faith of the Messiah's Church.

SNOW SHOE, PA., Jan. 5th, 1885.

To the Editor of the Republican:

DEAR SIR: In your last issue of the Republican, you state that you "received a circular from the Advent church, which labors to prove that the Judgment day would be on the 4th of January." But you do not say where the church is located, nor what Advent body it represents. As most of your readers probably are not aware that there are quite a number of distinct bodies, or Ecclesiastical organizations, that are called Adventists, I would offer a word of explanation, lest they should think that it came from the body of Adventists represented in Centre Co. as we are the only ones in this county. There is one class that is called "Christian Adventists." Their official organ is "The World's Crisis," published in Boston, Mass. There is another class called "The Seventh Day Adventists," they publish a paper called "The Sabbath Herald and Signs of the Times." Another class is represented by a paper called "The Bible Banner". These are all materialists in their views, i. e. they do not believe that man has a conscious existence separate from the body, or in other words, they do not believe that the soul and spirit survive the body in a separate conscious existence. The class represented in Centre Co. take the name of Messiah's Church or Evangelical Adventists. They publish a paper called Messiah's Herald, in Boston, Mass. As a body they have never set the day for the end of the world, on the contrary they have always deprecated such unscriptural attempts. I send you a copy of our "Principles of Faith." On page 11 you will notice what is said concerning "The Time of the Advent," Though we do not fix the definite time when the Son of Man shall come in His glory, yet the fulfillment of prophesies and the events in the history of the church and the world, which have taken place, and are now transpiring, give evidence that He is nigh, even at the door. It is the duty of Christians to watch and pray always, that they may be accounted worthy to escape all those things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man. The second advent of Christ, and the truths connected with that great event, are to be taught in connection with the various truths belonging to the Gospel of Christ, as they present Scripture motives for awakening and sanctifying the children of men."

The following is a brief synopsis of our distinctive faith: We are united in the divine inspiration of the Word of God, and adopt it as an infallible rule of faith and practice. We receive the Bible account of creation, and believe in the Adamic fall, universality of the curse, the Abrahamic Covenant, the Sovereignty of God; that man is alienated from God and exposed to His wrath out of Christ, that "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself." The incarnation and divinity of Christ; the vicarious atonement, the literal resurrection of Jesus from the dead. His ascension into heaven with the very same glorified body that came out of the tomb, His mediatorial works at the Father's right hand, and His personal, visible, glorious epiphany to our earth the second time. That the souls of the departed are in a conscious condition, in their respective waiting places, and will only receive their final reward at the coming of Christ. That the righteous dead will be raised, and the righteous living will be changed and made like unto Christ, at His coming. That the wicked living will be burned when the entire world is on fire, and their spirits will go to the place where those of the wicked dead now are, and at the end of 1000 years all the wicked dead will be raised, soul and body reunited, and with the Devil will be cast into "the Lake of Fire" to be tormented forever and ever. That the earth will be purified by fire, and the face of the earth renewed, the curse that now rests upon it forever removed, and it will be the everlasting abode of the saints, Eden restored, Paradise regained. That sin's sad story is nearly finished, that the long dark night of time will soon give place to the morning of eternal joy. That Christ will soon come to reward the righteous and punish the wicked, that the destinies of all will then be fixed eternally. These truths are sacredly cherished by this people. They consider them of vital importance. Calvary and redeemed Zion are alike precious to them. The cross and the crown, the sufferings and the glory of Christ are closely united. They long for the time to come when "Christ the Bridegroom" will come, and receive the church, "His Bride," to himself, for then, and not before, will "the marriage of the Lamb" take place. We claim to be Apostolic in our faith, to believe as the early Christians did in the first three centuries, the purest age of the church. I hope that many of your readers will heed your suggestion, and the command of Christ, and get ready for that important event.

Living Seven Years on Cocoanuts.

The value of the cocoanut as food is as yet but little understood. An instance of its use is found in the experience of two ship wrecked sailors. They were seven years on an island where their only food was cocoanuts and an occasional flying fish. They retained good health and gained in weight.

A Southern Scheme for Gen. Grant.

The following letter and editorial comments thereon are from the Richmond (Va.) Dispatch. We copy them at the request of a subscriber:

We introduce the following letter by saying that it comes from a gentleman who was a General in the Confederate Army. We look upon it as highly creditable to General Anderson. It speaks well for his head and for his heart. It seems in a peculiar sense to be a timely proposition, now that sectional strife appears to have come to end. General Anderson writes as follows:

GENERAL GRANT.

To the Editor of the Dispatch:

Recent statements in respect to General Grant's pecuniary troubles have induced me to revise my own personal conclusions in regard to the relation of that distinguished officer to the country, with results which I venture to ask you to publish for what they may be worth.

At the end of the war General Grant found himself permanently in command of the army, with the rank of general. It was well known that his high position for life filled the measure of his ambition. In the course of time, however, he was called by the people to the higher office of President. It was not unnatural that the people should have desired their successful general to fill the highest office in their gift, and I don't think it was unnatural that the general should have yielded to their wish, albeit the office of general was more in keeping with his soldierly tastes. It was thus that he accepted the unsought office of President, and now, looking back at the events of the day, it seems to me that, after serving his two terms he should have been restored to the command of the army. It strikes me that the people who clothed him with the honors of President, if the question had been fairly presented to them, would have said that they did not design that by accepting these honors he should forfeit the life position of general which he had won by his generalship. And now, as a remedy, I propose that Congress will pass an act simply reviving the rank of general, with the understanding that the President will immediately nominate General Grant to fill it, and, if thought best, it may provide that the rank shall cease at the death or retirement of the first incumbent. I propose to revive the rank of general instead of adopting the bill passed by the Senate for two reasons. First, if one proposes to do a handsome thing he prefers to do it in a way that will be most pleasant to the recipient; and second, in this way all scruples of the President, as developed in the Fitz-John Porter case, will be obviated. And, after all, the passage of such an act will not make the cost of the army a dollar more than it would have been if General Grant had not been made President.

Ordinarily, Mr. Editor, some embarrassment in the restoration of officers arises from supposed injury to his juniors. But in this case it is an additional rank, above all others. Hence no officer will suffer by it in rank nor in chance of promotion, save only that the lieutenant general may be superseded for a time in the chief command, though his rank and emoluments would remain unimpaired. And this interference would be probably for a brief period, if at all, as General Grant will soon have reached the retirement age, though as for that matter, I presume he is still as competent as ever to command the army. I think no objection would come from General Sheridan.

Now I take the liberty to call on my friend Senator Lamar to bring in such a bill, and to express the hope that every southern man will vote for it.

Let us for a moment suppose that circumstances could have been so changed that it was General Lee who had forfeited a high command for life by yielding to the wish of the people that he should serve them in another capacity for a limited period. How unanimous we would have been that he should not suffer by doing our will. Then let us remember that our northern friends bear no less love for General Grant. And above all, let us remember that since the 4th of last November the war is over, and banish from our minds and hearts every feeling of prejudice or animosity that may have been engendered by the war. Let us remember that this is our country and that we should all cherish the fame of our soldiers, no matter on which side in our unfortunate war it was won. And let us bear in mind, too, the great confidence reposed in us by the people of the Union at the last election, and ask ourselves if it is not due to ourselves, as well as to our fellow-citizens everywhere, to show by this act we are capable of ignoring prejudice and of "doing unto others as we would they should do unto us."

JOSEPH R. ANDERSON.

Richmond, January 1, 1885.

The Richest City in America.

Boston is the richest city in America in proportion to its population. It has 2,500 persons within its limits who pay taxes on real and personal property to the amount of $1,000,000 or more. One corporation pays $100,000 in taxes; five persons or corporations pay more than $50,000; six more than $40,000; nineteen more than $25,000; forty-nine more than $15,000; eighty-eight more than $10,000, and 278 more than $5,000. The heaviest individual taxpayer is Joshua M. Sears, who pays $59,000 on $3,418,000 of real estate. Nathaniel Thayer and trustees pay $47,000 on $2,777,000 of personal property. John S. Gardener pays $22,000 on $1,300,000 of real estate, and Harvard College pays $24,000 on $1,400,000 of real estate. Hon. Charles Francis Adams pays for himself $8,000 on $520,000 of real estate, and he and his son, Charles Francis, Jr., pay together $5,000 on $324,000 of real estate.

Married Him to Get Rid of Him.

Recently in deciding a case coming before him, Judge Duffy unconsciously perpetrated an old satire in a new form on the marital relations. A man was brought up charged with kissing his former sweetheart against her will. He pleaded that when they were engaged he kissed her "a thousand times a day," and the habit had become incurable. The Judge discharged the man with a warning, but soon after he left the court-room he repeated the offense. He was called back. The girl refused again to charge him with assault. The man said he could not resist the temptation. The Judge said he could not punish him unless complaint was made, or prevent him kissing the girl as often as he hereafter liked. "I'll tell you what to do to stop it," said the Judge to the girl. "What, your Honor?" she asked. "He seems a decent sort of a fellow and evidently loves you. Marry him and stop his annoying you in that way." This seems a parallel case to that of the wife who said she had married her husband "to get rid of him"—meaning his importunities.—N. Y. Tribune.

There is a blacksmith named Forreyson in Carson, Nevada, who has evolved an invention for lightening the labors of the horse. It is a new kind of road cart and is intended to give the horse a chance occasionally to ride in the cart as the driver. The cart has four wheels and the place between them arches, so that the horse is hitched under the wagon, between the wheels, his head projecting a little beyond the front wheels. The driver sits just over the horse's neck and the others in the wagon face outward at each side. The horse is so fastened that the pulling is distributed over his body and does not all come on his neck and shoulders. In this position he is greatly protected from the sun and storm and thereby enabled to make long journeys with less fatigue. But this is not all. There is a bellyband that lifts the horse up on making the descent of a hill and he rides down, a series of brakes controlling the momentum of the vehicle. When the horse attempts to run away the crank is turned and he is lifted off his feet until he becomes submissive. This stupendous myth traveled all the way from Carson, Nevada.

A Few Reasons Why.

Why are crab-apples sour? Oh, becores they is.

Why does a mountain look grand? Peak cause it does.

Why does the hawthorn bear fruit? Big-haws it does.

Why is the Capitol building admired? Big-house it is.

Why do dogs bark? Big-curs the tail don't wag the dog.

Why does a bucking mustang buck? Buck-cause he does.

Why is a crowded street car never full? Be-cars—give it up.

Why do ragpickers ply their calling? Why, pick-cause it pays.

Why do mendicants solicit alms? Beg-cause—oh, well, beg-cause.

Why do chickens eat grain? Peck-cause it lies easy on their craws, to be sure.

Why do hogs wallow in mud-puddles? Pig-cause they have so little muddy-sty.

Why does the pot-house voter get drunk? Beer-cause he doesn't have to pay for the drinks.

Why does a ship sometimes drag her anchor? Big-hawser anchor's too small, of course.

Feline Facetiousness.

The light in a cat's eyes has been found to be water gas.

The cat is the only vocalist that never gets mad if it is not applauded.

A newspaper out West puts an advertisement of a lost cat in its amews-ment columns.

Leading musicians are advocating a lower musical pitch. We hope the cats will adopt it.

In India cats sometimes have the cholera. No wonder that fiddle-strings give forth such everlasting yowls.

A Philadelphia cat howls and spits and gets up its back everytime it hears one singing "Sweet Violets." This shows that cats are really capable of envy.

What to Talk About.

Keep clear of personalities in general conversation. Talk of things, objects, thoughts. The smallest minds occupy themselves with personalities. Personalities must sometimes be talked because we have to learn and find out men's characteristics for legitimate objects; but it is to be with confidential persons. Do not needlessly report ill of others. There are times when we are compelled to say, "I do not think Bouncer a true and honest man." But when there is no need to express an opinion let poor Bouncer swagger away.

Advice to an Angry Man.

When your temper becomes ungovernable, my son, and you want to smash things, then is the time to do something. A man can get through a power of work when he is real mad. Only be careful what you fly at. I don't believe, if I were you, that I would count eggs or pack china, while the fit of anger was raging at 102 degrees in the shade. Pick oakum. That's a good safe business for any angry man. In a few hours I think you might pick enough to last a small family all winter.

Invitations are now sent out on "ragged edge" note paper. When a man gets such an invitation it must make him feel like a "slice of the day of judgment." It is a "paroxysmal" idea.

Evarts Has the Call.

ALBANY, N. Y., January 8.—The Evening Journal announces that Evarts has a clear majority in the legislature. It gives fifty-four as for Evarts against Morton, and says that "unless the promises of the men go for nothing and written words fail to express the usual meaning, unless evil influences succeed in quarters where we have not believed it possible for them to find success, the next senator from the state of New York will be William M. Kentucky Squirrels for England.

NEW YORK, January 8.—Two large specimens of the fox squirrel were received from Kentucky yesterday. Intelligence, not Impulse.

A Bellefonte gentleman, the other day, committed a few thoughts to paper and gave them to us to make of them what we choose. With the hope that they will accomplish the object for which they are intended we publish them to the world as follows:

The course of human events is constantly changing; so are the feelings and impulses of mankind. They are fickle and unreliable and we should be guarded in those which we allow to predominate. To-day, perhaps, man's impulses will lead him into one channel, and to-morrow they will cause him to say not this but that is the right way. Some jog along in the voyage of life like a ship in mid-ocean without a rudder. And a wreck on the shoals of eternity awaits those who allow feelings and impulses to be their steersman and guide, instead of that higher and better part of man.

Is not this the course of many of our good church-going people in regard to their respective pastors? The first impulse is: He is just the man! Somethings happens; or purchance the poor pastor goes where everybody (save the pastor) may go and the second impulse predominates without invoking the better part of man's nature into action. Then comes the complaint: "I am disappointed. His preaching don't do me any good. I won't go to hear him. He has not been prudent. He has failed to reach this or that one." And so we might go on enumerating. But enough has been put forward to convey the lesson intended, viz: Let persons act intelligently rather than by impulse.

—One of the industries of this place which everything indicates the town will have to part with soon is the steel works, under the management of that wonderfully ingenius gentleman, Mr. James Henderson. The factory with its valuable machinery now lying idle, is in the charge of Mr. Henderson's son, who also has a genius and taste for invention, and who spends most of his time contriving some "new thing under the sun." Mr. James Henderson spends most of his time in Jersey City, N. J., and is superintending the erection of a manufactory in Newark, N. J., a city which has every facility for transporting products of its manufactories to paying markets. The Newark factory will be very extensive and will have a rolling mill connected with it, the steel going through all the processes under one management from the raw ore to the completed article. The machinery in the factory at this place could be duplicated for $20,000, but it cost much more than that, having been changed quite frequently. Much of this money, provided by foreign capital, has found its way into this community and its presence has made Bellefonte richer. We regret the fact that all must be moved away in the spring and the work of producing this steel be carried on in another community.

—At length the Philadelphia Press has reached the "Rs" in the alphabetical notices of the members of the lower house of legislature, and in Thursday's issue we find the following:

RHONE, LEONARD (Dem.), Centre, was born July 21, 1838, in Potter Township, Centre county, and has lived there ever since, following the occupation of farming. He was elected Master of the State Grange Patrons of Husbandry in 1880, and now holds that position. In 1883 he was appointed one of the Commissioners of the State Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon.

WESTON, W. Va., January 7.—Considerable flurry was caused in society circles to-day by the discovery of the elopment of Emma Brannon, daughter of the Hon. Henry Brannon, Judge of this judicial district, and James Whalley, an Irish laborer. They were married in Pennsylvania, 400 miles from here.

VINCENNES, January 7.—Hazleton, ten miles south of here, is greatly excited over the appearance of a Mexican lion, which escaped from a circus last summer at Allendale, and during the recent cold weather crossed the Wabash and White Rivers on the ice. He has been committing serious depredations. Over 100 men are out hunting the beast.

HELENA, Mont., January 7.—Last evening reports were received from Marysville and Wycks of a severe wind storm, and snowdrifting and rain. It was so terrific at Silver City, about twelve miles distant, that the Benton coach had to tie up. The team, which left Marysville for Silver City last night, is not expected to get through.

MADRID, January 7.—Dispatches received this morning from Motrel show that the earthquake shocks at that city last evening were more severe than was indicated by the reports last night. A church and convent and fifty houses collapsed by the seismic shocks, but fortunately no one was killed, as the people had abandoned them and sought places of safety on the first shock being felt.

O fearful heart and throbbing brain!
Take hope and strength from this,
That nature never hints in vain,
Nor prophesies amiss.

Her wild birds sing the same sweet stave,
Her lights and airs are given
Alike to playground and the grave:
And over both in heaven.

Half Out of His Head.

"Blessed be the man," said Don Quixote's weary squire, "who invented sleep." Sancho's gratitude is ours, but what if one cannot for any reason enjoy that excellent invention? "Nervousness in me had become a disease," writes Mr. William Coleman, the well known wholesale druggist, of Buffalo, N. Y.

"I could not sleep, and my nights were either passed in that sort of restlessness which nearly crazes a man, or in a kind of stupor, haunted by tormenting dreams. Having taken PARKER'S TONIC for other troubles, I tried it also for this. The result both surprised and delighted me. My nerves were toned to concert pitch, and, like Cæsar's fat men, I fell into the ranks of those who sleep o' nights. I should add that the Tonic speedily did away with the condition of general debility and dyspepsia occasioned by previous sleeplessness, and gave me strength and perfect digestion. In brief, the use of the Tonic thoroughly re-established my health. I have used PARKER'S TONIC with entire success for sea-sickness and for the bowel disorders incident to ocean voyages."

This preparation has heretofore been known as PARKER'S GINGER TONIC. Hereafter it will be advertised and sold under the name of PARKER'S TONIC—omitting the word "ginger." HISCOX & Co. are induced to make this change by the action of unprincipled dealers who have for years deceived their customers by substituting inferior preparations under the name of ginger. We drop the misleading word all the more willingly, as ginger is an unimportant flavoring ingredient in our Tonic.

Please remember that no change has been, or will be, made in the preparation itself, and all bottles remaining in the hands of dealers, wrapped under the name of PARKER'S GINGER TONIC, contain the genuine medicine if the fac-simile signature of Hiscox & Co. is at the bottom of the outside wrapper. 16 50 4t

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and billiary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

MANHOOD
How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, etc.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

A Horrible Tale.

TRENTON, N. J., January 13.—Wortendyke is a small manufacturing village on the line of the Midland railroad, in Bergen county. It contains over 300 people who have been employed in the mills in the village. Lately most of the mills closed down, owing.so they claimed, to over-production. The condition of the people when the mills closed was pitiable, but as the days have passed their condition has become worse, until the people are literally starving. A visit to Wordendyke disclosed a harrowing state of affairs. Those of the inhabitants of the houses who were able to be abroad were thin and attenuated, and utter starvation was depicted upon their features. Hollow cheeks and glaring, hungry-looking eyes made ad men, women and children look liter less than savages. But an in eir view of some of these houses arsented a terrible sight. Ragged the tle children stood in the doorwttle and besought the visitors, not i:e money, but for food. Other children stood by, hungry looking and gaunt, but apparently too well bred and too proud to openly ask strang ers for what they were evidently so much in need of. Little feet that had not known a shoe for many a day were bound up in rags to guard them against the nipping frost. Squalid children of older growth had pieces of horse blankets bound around their lower limbs, and boys and girls were dressed alike. The elder members of the families, with dazed countenances, stared at the newcomers and seemed almost incapable of moving their limbs, or even their lips to answer the questions propounded. The miserable and scant furniture in these dwellings showed that if ever there had been better it had been made way with to satisfy the cravings of appetite. The coverings of the beds had, in some instances, been stripped off and had been improvised into garments.

One of the villagers said that one of the families had subsisted for nearly a week upon the carcass of a big Newfoundland dog. He said that the children eagerly ate the flesh and cried for more, although they knew from whence it came. It is said that cats have also been eaten. Other incidents of a more sickening nature are related. The story of Wortendyke's poverty reached the neighboring towns only yesterday. A number of charitable people have interested themselves in the matter and the churches and Sunday schools in three or four of the towns around were appealed to for contributions.

Frightful Boiler Explosion.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., January 12.—The boiler in the saw mill of Weigel & Bobst, opposite this city, exploded this afternoon. Peter Houser and Thomas Purvis were killed and the following persons injured: Daniel Bobst, William Betz, Joseph Brady, Andrew Bowers, Augustus Regelman, Leop Weigel. Bobst, who is one of proprietors of the mill, is thought to be fatally injured. The mill is a total wreck. The boiler, it is alleged, was old and defective. The scene of the explosion presented a terrible sight. Houser had his jaw split, the toes and heel of his left foot torn completely off and his legs were mashed to a jelly. His body was found at a point one hundred feet away from the mill. Purvis was also badly mutilated. One of his arms was torn off and his body was deluged with scalding steam and water. Brady is terribly scalded and his friends could scarcely recognize him after the accident. Weigel is badly scalded. Bobst has a scalp wound, is badly scalded and one of his legs was so badly injured that it had to be amputated. He is not expected to survive. Regelman was scalded about the face and had an arm broken. Godfried Lehman had his knee cut. Betts had an arm broken and received some scalds. Bowers was scalded about the face and head and will probably lose his eyes.

The President's First State Dinner.

WASHINGTON, January 11.—The President's first state dinner for the season is announced for Thursday evening, the 15th, to include the members of his Cabinet and their wives. The President has promised to attend the initial production of Howard Carroll's play, "The American Countess," on Wednesday evening, at the National, in which Mlle. Rhea has the title role.

Salvationists in a Police Station.

DAYTON, January 11.—Several members of the Salvation Army,after having been warned by the police,paraded through the streets with tambourines and other musical instruments Saturday night. They were arrested and locked in a station-house, where they remain, as they refuse to go out on bail. There is much interest manifested among religious people in the matter.

A Moving Village.

NEW YORK, January 11.—The correspondent of the Herald at Grenada, Spain, under date of yesterday, sends the following:

I have just returned from the village of Hueneja, where the most remarkable phenomenon of the entire visitation has occurred. The whole village moved seventy-five feet from its original position, yet every house is still standing, though many roofs are cracked and many walls have bulged.

To-day I passed around the village and interviewed the inhabitants. They said that the first intimation was on Christmas night while they were holding revelry and dancing. Many were in bed. The alcalde had received information that a band of brigands was near the village. Consequently he was on the alert with the police. The inhabitants had never before experienced an earthquake, and were unaware what had occurred when chimneys tumbled, walls cracked and the rooms were filled with dust and plaster.

All ran terrified from the houses and remained in the open air all night watching, praying and wondering what had happened. During the excitement the brigands succeeded in stealing mules and portable property on the outskirts of the village. Next day a small crack was observed on the hillside, but near the village. Fifteen minutes later the water supply stopped. The people noticed a crack passing through an ancient spring which for centuries has supplied the town. Subsequently the crack widened and extended entirely around the village to a creek in the valley on both sides. Day by day the crack increased, aided by repeated shocks, until some places visited to-day were forty feet clear, while in many places cracks covered from a hundred to three hundred feet. The town occupied a semi-circular amphitheatre. The entire slope moved in the direction of the valley is estimated by a provincial geologist at twenty-five metres, and this confirmed my observation. Several fields have sunk twenty feet below the upper surface. I must confess to a peculiar sensation in walking over a river of earth and in cracks, wondering what the result would be if the earth should open again.

Phelan was a Blaine Democrat.

KANSAS CITY, January 9.—Capt. Thos. Phelan has resided in this city for a number of years, and has long been known as a prominent Irish agitator and sympathizer with Ireland. While he was in England last summer it was reported that he had been arrested for complicity in the Dublin murders, which, however, proved untrue. He came to this city after the war. Of high temper, he is cool and brave and has many admirers. Recently he stabbed a man in a difficulty, but as it was done in self-defence he was promptly acquitted. He achieved considerable notoriety in the late campaign by his advocacy of Blaine, being a Democrat and holding an appointment as Superintendent of the city workhouse under a Democratic administration. He has an estimable family and many warm friends who sincerely hope for his recovery. He left the city hurriedly on Tuesday for New York supposedly on orders from the Irish National Society.

Phelan took exception to comments in O'Donovan Rossa's paper on this interview published here, and left for New York city Tuesday night with the intention, it is stated, of asking an explanation or retraction of them. He represented to his wife that he was going to St. Louis, and she was not aware of his mission to New York until informed this evening of the encounter there. She will leave for New York city to-morrow morning. Phelan is a man of violent temper.

Mrs. Grant to Get the Property.

NEW YORK, January 11.—William H. Vanderbilt yesterday addressed a letter to Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant in which he refers to the deeds, mortgages, swords, medals, etc., which had been delivered to his attorneys as security for the $150,000 borrowed by General Grant, and says:

At his solicitation the necessary steps were taken by judgment, etc., to reduce these properties to possession, and the articles mentioned have been this day brought in by me, and the amounts bid applied in the reduction of the debt. Now that I am at liberty to treat these things as my own the disposition of the whole matter most in accord with my feelings is this

I present to you as your separate estate the debt and judgment I hold against General Grant. Also the mortgages upon his real estate and all the household furniture and ornaments, coupled only with the condition that the swords, commissions, medals, gifts from the United States, states, cities, and from foreign governments, and all articles of historical value and interest shall at the General's death,or if you desire it sooner,be presented to the government at Washington, where they will remain as perpetual memorials of his fame and of the history of his time.

Phelan Slowly Recovering.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Richard Short, the man who stabbed Captain Phelan yesterday in O'Donovan Rossa's office, was arraigned in court to-day and appeared calm and collected. The knife with which the stabbing was done was put in evidence. The prisoner, at the request of his counsel, was remanded to await the result of Phelan's injuries. Later he was seen in his cell by a reporter, but refused to say anything. At the hospital to-day the physicians said that Phelan's condition had improved since midnight, and it was barely possible that he might recover.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Captain Thos. Phelan, who was stabbed in O'Donovan Rossa's office, continues to improve but was unable to attend court yesterday.

Four Boys Drowned.

POTTSVILLE, January 9.—Four boys, aged from eleven to fourteen years, were drowned in a private reservoir in the southern part of the town this afternoon while sliding on the ice, which was treacherously thin and rotten. The reservoirs were fenced in and belonged to the Richards estate. Warning had frequently been given to boys to remain away, but in spite of this they made it a resort for swimming in summer and skating in winter. Six broke into the enclosure to-day and four began sliding on the ice, which was nowhere over two inches thick and floating on the water. As soon as they lost their momentum and stood still the ice broke beneath them and they were drowned. Their names were William, aged fourteen years, and Harry, aged eleven years, sons of William Lewis, a colored hotel porter; Isaac H., aged twelve years, son of Albert Hoover, a clerk employed by the Reading Coal and Iron Company, and Frank Krause, aged eleven years, son of Jacob Krause, a car inspector. The bodies were all recovered and the Coroner held an inquest to-night. The accident produced great excitement, and a subscription has been started for the families, who live within a few doors of each other and are all poor.

He Will Wrestle no More.

CLEVELAND, January 11.—The announcement was made to-night that Duncan C. Ross, the famous Scotch athlete, had given up his saloon business, renounced athletics, and had decided to enter the ministry. To a reporter who called upon him Mr. Ross said:

"Yes, I am going to give up my saloon and shall wrestle no more. I have decided to enter the pulpit, and am now perfecting my plans for that purpose. I have to-night written a letter to the faculty of Trinity College, a theological seminary at Toronto, for admission. I hope to obtain a favorable reply, and if I do I shall immediately close up my affairs here and enter. My purpose is to take a two years' course of study in theology and to then enter the ministry."

"What has caused your present determination?"

"Principally a desire to help my fellow men," replied the athlete. "Since my wife's death I have no heart to resume my wrestling matches, and the saloon business has always been obnoxious to me, besides I am now convinced that in this way I can do the most good, and that it is my duty. In my particular business I have seen many things that will be useful to me in the pulpit."

Steel Nail Making at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, January 12.—Chess, Cook & Co., made an important move this morning, that means the introduction or rather the manufacture of steel nails in Pittsburg. The forge department of their nail mill on the South side was closed down indefinitely A force of machinists will at once be put to work to change the machinery so as to enable them to make steel nails. The manufacture of steel nails at Wheeling and Bellaire has been carried on very successfully for some time past, and large quantities of the nails are being sold. They are quoted a little higher than the iron nails, but the manufacturers think that the day is not far distant when they will supercede the iron nail, and that they can be manufactured just as cheap.

Warned that He must Stop Preaching.

MIFFLINTOWN, January 11.—A few evenings ago, while passing through a bridge between his home and the place at which he had preached, Rev. J. A. Magill, a United Presbyterian minister, living near McCoyville Juniata county, had his horse seized by the bridle and stopped by two men. "We have stopped you," said one of them, "to say that if you do not quit preaching temperance, as you have been preaching it, you may expect to move suddenly before long" Then they released the bridle and he drove home.

A Fall of Ninety Feet.

CLEVELAND, January 12.—Robert Windrers, a young man living in Bedford, was discovered Saturday lying at the bottom of a gorge where the Cleveland and Pittsburg road crosses Tinker's Creek. He was crossing the trestle on his way home Friday night, when he missed his footing and fell. His first fall was to a shelving place, sixty feet below, from whence he rebounded and struck thirty feet below. His hip was broken, and he was seriously injured. He lay for nine hours unable to move, and a part of the time unconscious, before help came.

Mormon Bravado in Utah.

SALT LAKE, January 9.—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held last night by Democratic clubs composed of young men of prominent Mormon families. Alfales Young, son of the late President Brigham Young, was a prominent speaker. He said: "Here is a complete union of Church and State." A Mormon cried out: "A lie." Young responded: "I guess it is; the Church has absorbed the State." A number of others spoke in the same vein. The meeting is the whole talk of the town to-day.

Earthquakes and Hurricanes.

MADRID, January 12.—King Alfonso left Granada yesterday morning and took breakfast at Loja. He then drove to Alhama, where he passed the night under canvas. Slight shocks were felt yesterday at Alhama and Alinunecar.

A hurricane in the providence of Malaga to-day completed the ruin of many places that suffered by the earthquakes. The camp in which fugitives from Periama had taken refuge was destroyed.

Belva's Claim.

WASHINGTON, January 12.—Mrs. Belva Ann Lockwood, the candidate of the Equal Rights party for President in the last campaign, has sent to the Senate,through Senator Hoar, a petition asking that the votes cast for her in New York, New Hampshire, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois, Maryland and California be counted and that the electoral vote of Indiana be given to her. She charges that the votes cast for her were "counted for the alleged majority candidate, the same being antagonistic to the letter and spirit of the law and subversive of every principle of equity and justice." She also asks that the Senate "refuse to receive the electoral returns of the State of New York or count them for the alleged majority candidate, for had the 1,336 votes which were polled in said State for your petitioner been counted for her and not for one Grover Cleveland, he would not have been awarded a majority of all the votes cast at said election in said State."

The reasons for asking that the electoral vote of Indiana be cast for her, she says, is "that after the electoral college of that State had cast its vote for the aforesaid Grover Cleveland it changed its mind—as it had a legal right to—and did cast its united ballot for your petitioner."

Death of Schuyler Colfax.

MANKATO, Minn., January 13.—Ex-Vice President Schuyler Colfax dropped dead at 10.35 this forenoon at the Omaha depot, in this city. He arrived on the Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad from the east at 10 o'clock and walked to the Omaha depot, a distance of three-fourths of a mile, with the thermometer 30 degrees below zero. After arriving at the depot he lived only about five minutes. It is supposed that extreme cold subsequent to heat and over exertion caused a stoppage of the flow of blood to the heart. The remains were taken in charge by Odd Fellows and now lie in wait at Dr. Harrington's residence. Every attention is being paid to the remains. Word has been sent to the family of the deceased, and the president has also been notified and orders are now awaited. A telegram was received from Mr. Studebaker ordering that the remains be sent immediately to South Bend, and the body left, accompanied by L. P. Hunt and L. Patterson,two eminent Odd Fellows, at 11 o'clock to-night.

A Plucky Woman's Revolver.

RALEIGH, N. C., January 12.—Two desperate colored criminals confined in the new jail at Goldsboro on Saturday night made an attempt to escape. The cells were of steel, but the men, to whom had been secretly conveyed powerful chisels, succeeded in breaking down the inner door and were at work on the outer door when Mrs. Thompson, the wife of the keeper, rushed in, accompanied by another woman. The prisoners desperately beat upon the outer door and had started one of the bolts when the plucky woman drew a revolver and commanded them to stop. Her determined air and words checked them, and by the time other help came the men were completely cowed.

A New Kink of the Telegraphers.

CINCINNATI, January 11.—It is whispered here that the telegraph operators of the country have formed, not a secret union or order such as the one that went to pieces in the strike of August, 1883, but a quasi organization, for the purpose of influencing congressional action, and that through this organization every congressman in the United States is to be personally urged to favor the Government taking into its own hands all the telegraph systems of the country and operating them.

To Keep His Memory Green.

NEW BRUNSWICK, January 12.—Gilbert Disborough, a bachelor, living in the town of Spotswood in this county, recently died. His will reveals the following strange bequest: Five hundred dollars to St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church,provided they annually toll the church bell on the anniversary of the day of his death, and the same number of strokes as he had attained years. The remainder of his property goes to the Reformed Dutch Church, providing they keep the family burial lot in good order.

A Cyclone on the Rampage.

MACON,Ga., January 12.—A cyclone passed over Jones and Baldwin counties last night, destroying much property. Several persons were injured but no lives were lost. The cyclone also passed through Hale, Perry and Bibb counties, Alabama, doing great damage to houses and fences. In Bibb county a man is reported killed and a Mrs. Mason seriously injured.

—The Lewisburg Saturday News embelishes its latest issue with a picture of Princess Beatrice, youngest daughter of Queen Victoria. The princess is only 27 years of age, but she looks at least 40 in the representation of her features given in the Saturday News. She is described as pretty, but the picture is quite the reverse.

To Repair Damages.

Dear lady, there is no use telling you that fashionable life in a great city is a rough one on your beauty. Late hours, loss of sleep, and mental excitement will leave you by and by shorn of those beautiful tresses which drew lovers around you in other years. Artificial substitutes can never pass for those rich and glossy locks. Parker's Hair Balsam will stop your hair from falling out, restore its natural color and softness, and prove cleansing and beneficial to the scalp.

—The Powelton Furnace, located at Saxton, in Bedford county, has been in continuous successful operations since October, 1882. The daily production of the furnace is 70 tons of pig metal, but on the 1st day of this year there were only 10 tons of metal in stock, showing how rapidly the product is sold. The present depressed condition of business has not effected this establishment.

The First Keen Twinge.

As the season advances, the pains and aches by which rheumatism makes itself known, are experienced after every exposure. It is not claimed that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a specific for rheumatism—we doubt if there is, or can be, such a remedy. But the thousands benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla, warrant us in urging others who suffer from rheumatism to take it before the first keen twinge.

—Late one night in a large mansion on Allegheny street: She—"Charlie, which do you like best in the grate—wood or coal?" He—"Well, I don't know, Clara, either will do me." She—"I like wood the best." He—"And why do you like wood the best?" She—"Because, Charlie, it pops." He popped.

Brain Work.

This is the age, and this is the country of great mental activity. Speculation, invention, enterprise, politics, educational progress, are the avenues for thought, exercise and development. The brain cannot continue to use its forces in all these directions without being sustained and recuperated by some natural aliment. Chemical science and medical skill have finally produced the food that can restore the exhausted brain and sustain the mental faculties in full vigor to extreme old age. And this food, now extensively used in the regular practice of all the leading physicians in the United States and Europe, is the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES of F. CROSBY Co., of New York, and which is more fully described in our advertising columns.

Watches and Jewelry.

HEADQUARTERS FOR

WATCHES & JEWELRY,

1885.

The general depression in business, the scarcity of money and the gloomy prospect for the future all had a tendency to contract the usual holiday business, yet notwithstanding all this our business the past season exceeded that of last by a right respectable amount. This is more remarkable when we recollect that it required the sale of many more articles this year to reach the same amount as last on account of the exceedingly low price of goods. For instance, one hundred dollars purchased two good ladies' gold watches; this year it required the sale of three to reach that amount. One thing has been clearly demonstrated, and that is that the people of our town and county are as able and as willing to buy as fine and expensive goods as the people of any other community are. All they require is a fine stock to select from and that marked at living prices. There are still some of our good neighbors who imagine that they can't expect to get here in Bellefonte what they can order from New York or Philadelphia. In order to convince these of their error and to better serve my regular customers I have at this early day completed my stock which was somewhat broken up by the holiday battle and have extended my solid silver department until its equal cannot be found in the central part of the State, and, in its lines, its superior nowhere. This is strong, but I have the evidence in my store now to make it good. By the time this is in type I can display to your wondering gaze the most magnificent Ice Cream Sets, Coffee Sets, Salad Sets, Fish Sets, Oyster Sets, Egg Spoons, Ice Cream Knives, Shoe Horn and Buttoner, Salts and Salt Spoon, along with an endless variety of Sugar Spoons, Pie and Cake Knives, Jelly and Berry Spoons, Butter and Fish Knives, Olive and Pickle Forks, Tea and Table Spoons, Table Forks, &c., all of Solid Sterling Silver, all cased in the most beautiful cases ever beheld by the eyes of man or woman.

A Trip up the Valley.

Leaving Bellefonte, we took our way through the pleasant borough of Milesburg, continuing on up the valley till we arrived at Unionville, where we tarried for the night at the house of that affable and hospitable gentleman, John G. Geary. We can testify that that gentleman conducted himself in the most agreeable manner possible; quite unlike a certain outside attraction (a tame bear) which he owns, and which, were we to judge by its somewhat sulky appearance, would denote a rather bearish disposition. While in the borough we called on Dr. E. A. Russell and regret to note that we found that polite gentleman suffering from an apparent attack of pleurisy. He, however, was not so severely ill but that he was able to converse fluently, and while we were there he showed us quite an heirloom—an old clock, the age of which is known to be over one hundred and fifty years. Its age and Gothic architecture give it a quaint appearance and it is wound by a chain of peculiar workmanship. We noticed that day that, for the first time since his unfortunate mishap, Mr. Edward Peters was again to be seen on the streets. The mishap to which we allude was the loss of sight of one of his eyes and the injury of the other by a piece of wire from a hay-baler.

On New Years morn we were pleased to be taken to the home of Mr. Taylor, father of the present Mrs. A. T. Leathers, to inspect the array of presents received by the fair bride on her wedding day. The collection is more than ordinarily rich and if time and space permitted we would gladly itemize the articles, but must be content with merely naming the different places from which gifts were received, viz: Washington, D. C., Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Bellefonte, Tyrone, Snow Shoe, Curwensville, Penfield, Houtzdale, Petersburg, Milesburg, Curtin's, Snow Shoe Intersection and Unionville; and, by request, we tender to the givers the sincere acknowledgements and expressed thanks of the happy recipients for all these marks of favor. We unite with hosts of friends in wishing this fortunate couple a life of continued happiness.

But we must leave Unionville and continue our way through the seemingly endless hills of Bald Eagle Valley. Julian we found in a very placid condition while other of the villages further up the valley were passed through and their neat, well-kept appearance noted with approval. At length we came to Loveville, a small village in the upper part of the county. Tarrying there over Sunday, we had ample time to take a complete survey of the place. Nothing of great importance disclosed itself to us while there, but it was easy to see that all were enjoying themselves as much as possible. The Centre Line M. E. Sunday school gave a Christmas treat to its members on that day. The occasion was one in which all found much enjoyment as was seen by the expression of gladness on each countenance. Mr. A. G. Wilson and Mr. C. G. Roop, who were at home spending the holiday vacation, departed on Tuesday morning for Williamsport.

After starting away from Loveville we visited Gatesburg to see what they were doing in that village. Calling at the store of Mr. Matthias Rider, we had the pleasure of meeting quite a number of Gatesburg's citizens, who were passing the time in conversation. The time we spent in the company of these citizens was among the most enjoyable of the trip.

As we passed through Stormstown we dropped in to see Mr. J. H. Griffin, who is doing a good business in his store, for the reason that he is attentive and agreeable to all customers. The only thing we have to complain of is that he is a Democrat. Our visit to the Juniata Mines was brief, but while there we observed that business at that place did not seem in any depressed condition, as the continual whir and hum of machinery gave evidence that the works were in an exceedingly prosperous condition. During our tarry at Scotia we found that community somewhat happier in spirits than was the case a few weeks ago. The cause of their light-heartedness is the prospect of a renewal of operations at the works on the first of February. This causes even Captain Mullen to smile and revives business generally.

Our return to Bellefonte was unmarked by any incident worthy of notice, and so we will just record the fact that we had the privilege of partaking of the hospitality of the Hon. B. F. Hunter and was for a brief time most agreeably entertained by that gentleman. Continuing on our way we soon arrived in Bellefonte, and thus completed our trip of business and pleasure. WEB.

A Card.

The M. E. parsonage at Milesburg was visited by a large company of kind friends on Tuesday evening, January 6, who left many substantial tokens of their goodwill I desire to return my sincere thanks and that of my family for their generous expression of kind feeling. May the Giver of all good bless them abundantly. WM. W. REESE.

WE do not like the terms upon which Mr. Vanderbilt is willing to give Gen. Grant's property to Mrs. Grant. It looks very much as though the rich man wants to appear willing to do a generous deed, but inserts a condition which forbids its acceptance. If Mr. Vanderbilt wants to give these articles to Mrs. Grant let him give them outright, and let the lady use her own taste, judgment and good sense as to the disposal of them afterwards. We predict that Mrs. Grant will refuse the gift.

SULLIVAN, the Boston prize fighter, is to be prosecuted for kicking and beating a horse. Professor Sullivan may with impunity kick servant girls and hammer the features off his fellow-men for gate money, but when he begins to attack horses he treads upon dangerous ground. There are some things that even Boston won't stand.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

THE marvellous results of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA upon all humors and low conditions of the blood (as proven by the cures effected) prove it the best BLOOD MEDICINE. Such has been the success of this article at home that nearly every family in whole neighborhoods have been taking it at the same time. It eradicates scrofula, vitalizes and enriches the blood, thereby restoring and renovating the whole system. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA purifies the blood. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures dyspepsia. HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA cures biliousness. A peculiar point in HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is that it builds up and strengthens the system, while it eradicates disease, and as nature's great assistant proves itself invaluable as a protection from diseases that originate in changes of the seasons, of climate and of life.

SCROFULA.

135 HOWARD STREET, LOWELL, MASS., Jan. 17.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & CO.: Gentlemen—I have used HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA in my family for scrofulous humor with wonderful success, and am happy to tell you that it is the best medicine we ever used. I do sincerely advise any one who is troubled with scrofula to give this valuable remedy a trial, and assure them they will not be disappointed. Very truly yours, (Coburn Shuttle Co.) C. C. PICKERING.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA is sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. HOOD & CO., Lowell, Mass.

CROSBY'S

VITALIZED

PHOS-PHITES,

Composed of the Nerve-giving principles of the Ox-Brain and the Embryo of the Wheat and Oat.

This is a standard preparation with all physicians who treat mental or nervous disorders. The formula is on every label. Its chemical composition is superintended by a Professor of Chemistry.

As it is identical in its composition with brain-matter, it is rapidly absorbed, and quickly relieves the depression from intellectual efforts, fatigue, loss of memory, or mental irritability.

Sleeplessness, irritation, nervous exhaustion, inability to work or study, is but a brain-hunger—in urgent cases, brain starvation. This brain nutriment quickly feeds the hungry nerves and restores brain power. It is a cure for nervous disorders and debility in old or young.

Brain-Workers Need Brain-Food.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

Foes of England.

PITTSBURG, January 7.—The rumor is current at Greensburg, Westmoreland county, to-night, that English detectives have obtained evidence to the effect that a powerful secret society of dynamiters is in existence within the boundaries of this county and also that the society is directly responsible for the recent explosions and assassinations in England. These detectives have been on the track of this society or brotherhood for several months and have found that it is well and thoroughly organized, somewhat under the plan of the Mollie Maguires; that its treasury contains a large amount of money, obtained by assessment and other sources from all parts of the State. Some of the recent explosions have been traced directly to Westmoreland county, as well as a number of assassinations committed in England. The headquarters of the brotherhood is suggested to be at Demin, a small mining town ten miles west of this place.

For several months past a stranger has been noticed upon the streets of Greensburg, never stopping twice at the same hotel, and without apparent occupation. His mysterious action was the subject of much speculation by the citizens of the town. It is now openly asserted that he was an agent of England, and that he has followed several resident Irishmen all the way to England and return; that he has obtained sufficient evidence to substantiate the fact that an all-powerful brotherhood, with plenty of ready money at their disposal and extraordinary facilities for exporting explosives of all descriptions and for utilizing them after landing is in existence.

The agent at Irwin for the ocean steamship lines has in the past year sold large numbers of tickets to and from Ireland and England, but whether they were used by the brotherhood or not remains to be ascertained. It is said that these secret spies of England have mingled, with the suspects for over a year and have in fact become comparatively one of their number. These agents have departed with their evidence for Washington, D. C., where they will lay the matter before the proper English authorities. It is claimed that the evidence obtained and in the possession of those detectives is of such a nature that it will show beyond the peradventure of a doubt that citizens of this county have been and are now engaged in sending to England trusted men with large quantities of dynamite, and men who have the nerve to use it after it is there.

Invited to Death.

NEW YORK, January 9.—Thomas Phelan, a prominent Irishman, was mortally wounded in the office of O'Donovan Rossa's paper, the United Irishman, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Phelan in his ante-mortem statement said: "On last Sunday week an interview between myself and the local editor of the Kansas City Journal was published in the Journal. The paper is now in my pocket. I afterwards received a letter from John Kearney asking me to come to this city. I telegraphed him that I would be there in January 8. When I arrived to-day, I called on Kearney, and together went to Donovan Rossa's office. Rock Mountain O'Brien came in while we were there. He shook hands with me in a friendly way and asked how I was. He then left, and a man, whose name I think is Barker, came in, with a knife in his hand. He immediately approached and struck at me about the chest. I was seated in a chair at the time and warded off the blow. He made more thrusts and stabbed me several times.

"I sprang to my feet and ran down stairs. Barker followed me and cut me again and again. On the street Barker was brought before me. I recognized him as the man who stabbed me, and, supposing he would stab me again, I shot him. I first met Barker on my return from Europe, in August or September last. It was in Rossa's office. I met him there afterwards. Kearney and two other men I don't know were present when I was assaulted."

The identity of the two men spoken of could not be established. They, with Kearney, fled when the butchery began.

Crushed under the Locomotive.

FARMINGDALE, L. I., January 9.—The Deer Park accommodation train, which left Hunter's Point last night, was derailed at Bethpage Junction, a mile west of here, at 6 50 this morning. The locomotive upset, and the engineer, Henry Burtzell, and the fireman, John Dotzell, falling under, were crushed and scalded. Burtzell was dead when taken out. His body was terribly mangled. Dotzell was alive, but his injuries are fatal. The train consisted of a locomotive, one combination baggage car and smoker, and one passenger car. Both cars left the track. The wheels of the truck of the car next to the engine were torn from under, but it did not upset. Fortunately there were few passengers aboard. All in the rear car were badly shaken, but not injured.

A thorough examination of the scene of the accident on the Long Island railroad by Superintendent Barton and other officials, shows it was a deliberate case of wrecking by unknown parties. A stall had been removed from a tie, and one of the switch rails moved so that the wheels of the locomotive would strike it and be thrown from the track. Superintendent Barton says it was the underhand work of some one understanding the switch—probably a discharged employe. Detectives have set to work to discover the perpetrator.

Heirs to many Millions.

READING, January 6.—Meetings are being held in this section by the representatives of the Sands and Geiger families for the purpose of taking steps to recover a fortune in England amounting to between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000. John Sands and his two sons came to America in the early part of the seventeenth century and settled at Amityville. Berks County. Abijah, one of the sons, remained in Amityville with his father and the other, it is said, sailed for England and was never heard from afterward. Abijah finally married and located at Geigertown, and his children married into the Trump, Price, Spang, Geiger and other families. The fortune is due, it is said, from the estate of the Sands, who were compelled to leave England on account of their religion. Under recent laws it has been decided to restore the property, which was seized by the Government, to the legal heirs. It is understood that Henry Sands, of this city is in communication with the foreign authorities, and more definite information is looked for daily.

The County Seat Troubles in Dakota.

PIERRE, Dak., January 7.—A telegram from Forest City, Potter county, says an armed mob from Gettysburg and vicinity came to Forest City this morning, and under charge of C. W. Gilchrist, Jim Brison and a man named Daty took possession of the public records by tearing out part of the building in which they were kept, and removing them by force. The sheriff has started in pursuit at the head of an armed force and the probabilities are that a fight will ensue. Citizens are coming in from all directions and say unless the records are returned by to-morrow the county will be the scene of bloodshed and riot. A great majority of the people desire to see the county seat matter settled by the court and will abide its decision cheerfully. Probabilities are that a hundred and fifty men armed to the teeth will make a raid on Gettysburg to night and demand the records.

A Millionaire's Peculiar Will.

BOSTON, January 8.—The late George Gardner, of Boston and Beverly, a recently deceased millionaire, left a peculiar will, which was filed to-day. There are no public bequests, but the bulk of his property is left in the hands of trustees. They are directed to pay to his wife each year 1,161 Troy ounces of pure gold, and in addition, if she wants it, $10,000 cash. It is said that when this will was made this quantity of gold represented his wife's exact weight, which was between 90 and 100 pounds avoirdupois. The will further specifies that the trustees "shall, if she from time to time so direct, deliver to her said pure gold debased by alloy, estimating such alloyed gold at the weight, said Troy weight, of pure gold it may from time to time contain." The remainder of the income of the estate is to be divided among his relations.

Governor Bunn Discovers a Mine.

HARRISBUG, January 6.—A charter was issued to-day to the Deer Creek Consolidated Mining Company, which proposes to operate two mines in Idaho Territory known as the Bushwhacker and Trade Dollar lodes. The capital stock of the company is $200,000. The directors are Henry H. Bingham, William M. Bunn, James H. Heverin and William M. Wilson, of Philadelphia, and John M. Harper, New York. Wilson is credited with the ownership of 180,000 shares; David H. Lane, 4,000; Bingham, 4,000; Harper, 3,000; Peter Lane, Jr., 5,000, and Governor Bunn, 4,000. The York Haven Paper Company, with its principal office in Philadelphia, was also chartered to day. The capital stock is $250,000. Among the shareholders are D. O. Wharton and Thomas Stokes, Philadelphia, and Henry C. Carter, Montgomery.

The Dynamite Story Disbelieved.

GREENSBURG, January 8.—Some excitement has been caused here by the report that Irish-American dynamite suspects resided in the vicinity of Irwin, a little mining town ten miles west of here. But very little credence is given to the story, and it is generally believed to be a canard. The editors of the various papers treat it in the same light and denounce it. James B. Laux, editor of the Press, calls it a Democratic scheme, and thinks that some persons are trying to get even with the Irish-Americans who voted with the Republicans in the recent election, which caused the defeat of the whole Democratic county ticket.

A Home to Cost $5,000,000.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., January 8.—Mrs. Hopkins, widow of the late California railroad millionaire, Mark Hopkins, has made changes in her plans for a residence. She is to build in Great Barrington, and the cost of the house and grounds will be $5,000,000. She intends to have the most expensive house in the United States. It will be built of blue stone, from a quarry which she owns, and work will begin as soon as Spring opens. The work at the quarry will be carried on day and night. Electric light will be used for the night operations. One thousand men will be employed on the job for three years.

Seven Men Frozen to Death.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., January 8.—A man who arrived here to-day from Running Water brings news confirming previous reports of the freezing to death of seven men on the Niobrara River Road in Nebraska. Two of the men were found sitting in a buggy, frozen stiff, the horse having reached a station with his silent drivers. No names have yet been learned. This Niobrara case of freezing should not be confounded with that previously reported, where it was stated that fourteen men had perished along the New Sioux City and Pacific Railroad grade.

Gen. Grant Declines.

NEW YORK, January 7.—It would seem that the effort to raise a fund to pay off the mortgage upon General Grant's personal effects has been summarily stopped by the General himself. The Mail and Express will this afternoon publish the following characteristic letter to Cyrus W. Field:

NEW YORK CITY, January 6, 1885.

MY DEAR SIR—Through the press and otherwise I learn that you, with a few other friends of mine, are engaged in raising a subscription for my benefit. I appreciate both the motive and the friendship which have dictated this course on your part, but, on mature reflection, I regard it as due to myself and family to decline it his proferred generosity. I regret that I did not make this known earlier. Very truly yours, (Signed) U. S. GRANT.

Nearly Killed by Grief.

JERSEY CITY, January 6.—A singular case of suspended animation is reported from East New Durham, N. J. The victim is Miss Amelia Schaefer, aged nineteen, the daughter of a well-to-do gardener. On New Year's Eve Miss Schaefer received intelligence that a young man to whom she was betrothed had been killed in a mine in Pennsylvania. She was prostrated with grief and was assisted to her bed by her mother. On the following day she wept almost continuously and grew very weak as night approached. On Friday morning her mother, upon going up stairs, found her daughter apparently dead. No action of the heart could be detected until last evening, when feeble pulsations of the heart and at the wrists were detected. Since then she has gradually recovered consciousness and now bids fair to recover.

Four Thousand Miners Thrown out.

WILKESBARRE, January 6.—A general order was issued by the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company to-day suspending operations in four of their collieries in this district, the Laurel Run and Baltimore tunnel in Plains township, and Nos. 2 and 4 at Plymouth and also four in the Scranton district. These suspensions, in addition to those of the Delaware and Western Company in the Scranton district, throw four thousand persons out of employment, and it is expected the contemplated stoppage by the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Company will add at least one thousand more to the number.

Frightful Experience at Sea.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., January 8.—The British bark Isabel, from Cadiz reports passing a large Norwegian bark on the 20th ult. The name of the bark was Alhama, of Arendal. No vestige of the crew was found. Two days previous the Isabel experienced terrific earthquake shocks lasting fifteen minutes. The thunderous submarine roaring was appalling. The ship was shaken up in every fibre. The crew was paralyzed with fear, and broke through all discipline, and cut the boats loose. The cessation of the shocks restored tranquility on board. It was calm and fine at the time.

Gen. Grant's Refusal.

NEW YORK, January 8.—Cyrus W. Field said this morning, in regard to General Grant's refusal to receive the fund being raised for his benefit, that he had no knowledge of General Grant's reason, and could only imagine that some friend of the general's had taken up Vanderbilt's claim. Mr. Field said he had returned every cent subscribed, but refused to state the amount raised. He stated there would have been no difficulty in raising the sum, and Vanderbilt told him the property of the General was instrinsically worth $170,000.

Reagan Made Happy.

WASHINGTON, January 8.—The inter-state commerce bill passed the house to-day by a vote of 158 to 75. The Pennsylvania members voted as follows:

Yeas—Bayne, Braiderd, Brown, Campbell, Connolly, Curtin, Ermentrout, Hopkins, Patton, Randall, Storm and Swope.

Nays—Atkinson, Barr, Bingham, Boyle, Brumm, Elliott, Everhart, Harmer, Kelly, Mutchler, O'Neil, Post and Smith.

No Questions Asked.

A mendicant entered an editorial office at a time when the editor was very busy.

"Sir," said the mendicant, "I have lost a leg——"

"All right, sir. A fifty-cent ad. in our Lost and Found column will doubtless insure its return. No questions asked, I suppose?"

HOME.—In calling attention to an article advertised in our columns, we are pleased to notice an excellent sign in regard to it, viz.: That the testimonials relating to Hood's Sarsaparilla are from New England people, and many are from Lowell, the home of this medicine. We are assured that the sale of this article in Lowell, where it is best known, is wholly unprecedented in the annals of proprietary medicines. We leave it with you to decide as to the probable merits of an article with such a solid foundation.

Could Suit Him.

House hunter—This house is very nice, but it won't do for me. It is not large enough.

Real estate agent—I thought you said you had only one child?

"True; but I forgot about my uncle He is a very rich old bachelor and has promised to come and live with me."

"Oh, I see now. Well, I can suit you exactly. Only a square off I have a house larger than this, and with a big square room, which will be just the thing for a rich uncle."

"Indeed!"

"Yes; it faces directly north, and is awful damp."—Ex.]

The American Institute on Speer's Wines.

A committee was appointed to visit Alfred Speer's vineyards and wine cellars at Passaic, N. J. The following is the report: "Many will be surprised to learn that within so short a distance from New York city is an enterprise so extensive, of so much importance and so successful.

The qualities of these wines are not excelled by any producer in the world, and during the season when the operations of handling the grapes and expressing the julces are in active progress it is interesting to visit the vineyards and witness the operation. —A. HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

Illustrated.

With the new volume, beginning in December, Harper's Magazine will conclude its thirty-fifth year. The oldest periodical of its type, it is yet, in each new volume, a new magazine, not simply because it presents fresh subjects and new pictures, but also, and chiefly, because it steadily advances in the method itself of magazine making. In a word, the Magazine becomes more and more the faithful mirror of current life and movement. Leading features in the attractive programme for 1885 are: new serial novels by Constance Fenimore Woolson and W. D. Howells; a new novel entitled "At the Red Glove;" descriptive illustrated papers by F. D. Millet, R. Swain Gifford, E. A. Abbey, H. Gibson and others; Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," illustrated by Abbey; important papers on Art, Science, etc.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Illustrated.

Harper's Weekly has now, for twenty years, maintained its position as the leading illustrated weekly newspaper in America. With a constant increase of literary and artistic resources, it is able to offer for the ensuing year attractions unequalled by any previous volume, embracing a capital illustrated serial story by W. E. Norris; illustrated articles with special reference to the West and South, including the World's Exposition at New Orleans; entertaining short stories, mostly illustrated, and important papers by high authorities on the chief topics of the day.

Every one who desires a trustworthy political guide, an entertaining and instructive family journal, entirely free from objectionable features in either letter press or illustrations, should subscribe to Harper's Weekly.

HARPER'S BAZAR.

Illustrated.

Harper's Bazar is the only paper in the world that combines the choicest literature and the finest art illustrations with the latest fashions and methods of household adornment. Its weekly illustrations and descriptions of the newest Paris and New York styles, with its useful pattern-sheet supplements and cut patterns, by enabling ladies to be their own dressmakers, save many times the cost of subscription. Its papers on cooking, the management of servants, and housekeeping in its various details are eminently practical. Much attention is given to the interesting topic of social etiquette, and its illustrations of art needle-work are acknowledged to be unequalled. Its literary merit is of the highest excellence, and the unique character of its humorous pictures has won for it the name of the American Punch.

Harper's Young People.

An Illustrated Weekly.

The serial and short stories in Harper's Young People have all the dramatic interest that juvenile fiction can possess, while they are wholly free from what is pernicious or vulgarly sensational. The humorous stories and pictures are full of innocent fun, and the papers on natural history and science, travel, and the facts of life, are by writers whose names give the assurance of accuracy and value. Illustrated papers on athletic sports, games, and pastimes give full information on these subjects. There is nothing cheap about it but its price.

An epitome of everything that is attractive and desirable in juvenile literature.—Boston Courier.

A weekly feast of good things to the boys and girls in every family which it visits.—Brooklyn Union.

It is wonderful in its wealth of pictures information, and interest.—Christian Advocate, N. Y.

—The Bellefonte Glass Company did a profitable business last year, and find that their profits reach the handsome sum of $8,000.

—The 20th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Bunnell is to occur at their home in Milroy quite soon. We forget the exact time.

—People living at the other end of the county look forward to the pleasing prospect of coming to Bellefonte on the cars at the time of the April session of court. Hope so.

—Dr. Rhone, has rented Dr. Hayes residence on Allegheny street, which was recently occupied by the family of Mr. W. H. Wilkinson, and will move into it on the first of April.

—Joseph H. Glasgow, an aged man living in Antis township, Blair county, was killed by a shifting engine while walking on the railroad near Altoona on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

—We have received a most excellent and readable communication from Rev. Geo. R. Penney, of Snow Shoe, on the faith of the Messiah's church or Evangelical Adventists. It appears in another column.

—The revival services in the United Brethren church have become very interesting and the building is crowded nightly, with encouraging results. The pastor in charge has impressed many professing Christians with the conviction that it will not hurt them to become a little better than they are now.

—A new firm has taken charge of the coal and agriculture implement business recently conducted by Mr. James Alexander. It will be known as McCalmont & Co. We understand that Mr. William Shortlidge is interested in the new firm and together these gentlemen will make the business very lively.

—The "Assembly" ball to be given in the Brockerhoff House next Friday evening will be an exceedingly elegant affair. It is probably prompted by the fact that there will be numerous strangers in town at that time in attendance at the wedding which takes place the previous day, and will be in their honor.

—D. F. Fortney has been re-elected Commissioner Attorney. This is a wise selection, as David is a first class lawyer and looks after the rat holes with a feline eye. George W. Rumbarger succeeds Sheriff Walker as clerk to the board. D. L. Zerby is mercantile appraiser. These are all good selections.—Centre Democrat.

—Rev. R. Crittenden departed last Thursday for the Pine Creek regions, his object being to encourage some of his mission schools that have for the first time undertaken to continue their sessions through the winter months. He takes with him a large supply of articles that are required for Sunday-schools, and his visit will doubtless be very welcome to them.

—Many reports are being received concerning rather disgraceful proceedings in connection with some of the schools in this county. For instance, about two weeks ago, in one of the schools of Ferguson township, two men or boys engaged in a fight in which the victor tried to make a meal off of his antagonist's ear, and after the close of a recent spelling bee in a school above Roopsburg, one of the spellers who had been reproved by the teacher attacked the pedagogue, with what result we have not heard.

—Mr. Kyle McFarlane and his bride returned home a few days ago from their wedding tour and on Thursday evening a most elegant reception was tendered to the happy couple at the home of the groom's father near Boalsburg. The attendance was from Bellefonte and all the surrounding country. The refreshments were particularly choice and all the festivities enjoyable and continued until so late an hour that some of the Bellefonte guests failed to reach home until morning.

Items Gathered from Neighboring Exchanges.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Goss, of Osceola, celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday, December 30.

The coal firm of Mears Brothers at Huntington has failed for $20,000.

Berwind, White & Co. claim to have shipped 1,400,000 tons of coal over the Tyrone and Clearfield road, during last year. They are the largest coal dealers in the Clearfield region, although John Whitehead is not far behind in the amounts of shipments.

Miss Mary Lahey of Dudley, Huntingdon Co., was almost suffocated by gas a few nights ago while at the Brunswick Hotel, in Huntingdon. The carelessness which occasioned this accident was not on the part of the young lady, however, but was rather that of the gas company who turned the gas off while it was burning and again filled the pipes.

A bell weighing 750 pounds has been put in the tower of the West Huntingdon fire engine house. By the way, the Logan Hose Company also want a bell.

Judge Linn and William D. Crocker, Esq., of Williamsport, have recently formed a partnership for the practice of law.

The sanitary committee at Harrisburg is also making war on hogs, and will allow no soap factories within the city limits.

Judge Johnson, of Cambria county, on Wednesday made an order of court to the effect that hereafter bondsmen on license petitions must be residents of the same district as the applicant. Heretofore the question of residence has not been considered in connection with the bondsmen, and some of the Johnstown saloon-keepers have as their sureties persons residing in the country. The order of court is not relished by some of the liquor dealers, as they think it will be difficult for them to comply with it. The hearing of applications for license will be had on the third Monday in March, and, in the meantime, the landlords will skirmish around among their neighbors for the requisite security.

—From the report of E. E. Higbee, Superintendent of Public Instruction, we learn that the value of school property in Centre county is $246,687 and that 58 teachers hold permanent certificates. Considerable information about school houses and grounds is also obtainable from the same source. For instance, 89 schools in this county have grounds of suitable size and 10 of these grounds are suitably improved. There are 195 school houses in the county of which 178 are frame, 16 or brick or stone, 1 of logs. Five school houses were built during the year, 8 are unfit for use, 151 are badly ventilated (think of that parents and guardians who send children to them!), 22 are first-class in all particulars, 127 have suitable furniture, 51 have injurious furniture, 91 have been supplied with new furniture during the year, 15 are well supplied with apparatus, 160 are without apparatus of value, and 30 received some additional apparatus during the year. There are 75 graded school, 2 of which were graded during the year and 5 more are neded. There are 104 teachers in the schools who intend making teaching a permanent business. Thirty-one have attended a State Normal school and 10 are graduates of such schools. The books are uniform in 216 schools, the Bible is read in 227, drawing is taught in 88, vocal music in 95, one or more of the higher branches in 77. Of the teachers 155 are males and 90 females. Their average age is 25 years.

A Distressing Accident.

On Thursday morning word was received in this place of a very sad accident, of which Mr. Ed. Humes, son of Mr. Wm. Humes, of Brisbin, was the victim. The young man was engaged at work behind a saw in the mill of Hoover, Hughes & Co. While thus engaged a large splinter from the wood struck him in the right eye, injuring that organ very seriously. Ed. immediately started for Philadelphia to receive treatment from a skillful surgeon. Until the surgeon is consulted the full extent of his injuries will not be known, but it is feared that he will lose the sight of one eye.

This information will be received with regret by hosts of people in this place who are acquainted with Mr. Ed. Humes as well as of the entire family of which he is a member, who were until quite recently residents of this place. He is in the prime of young manhood—industrious and ambitious—and to be thus stricken with even partial blindness would indeed be a dark cloud over his promising life. But we hope that the prompt measures taken for his relief, the skill of the best surgeons and the care of friends will combine to avert the result so much dreaded.

A Word to Parents.

See that your child never leaves any task half done or slovenly finished; and therefore give not too many tasks. Thoroughness is the cornerstone of success. There is no place in the world now for smatterers and who know a little and only a little under the sun. There is always an honorable place for those who can do any kind of honest work in the best manner. Show the child from the experience of others that little or no progress is made by spasmodic or intermittent effort. The world is now so advanced and competition so keen that genius must ally itself with patient, persistent work, and with the deftness which comes only from continuous practice. The young are prone to dream of what they will do in the future. The history of others proves that they will never do much, unless they are doing their present work thoroughly. They do not realize this, and mere arbitrary assertion of the fact usually makes but slight impression. Biographies of successful men, whether read from libraries or furnished from your own memory of your own neighbors, establish the truth in their minds, and such biographies should be freely read by children.

We Welcome all of Them.

We welcome the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company, with its immense capital, to Bellefonte. When the company takes possession of Valentines' large iron ore properties and forges the result will be an activity such as was never known before in this vicinity. As a result of the possession of the property by this company and the work that will be done, the erection of the Beech Creek and Bellefonte Railroad will follow. No "pent up Utica" shall confine our powers, but with railroad outlets in three directions and all the advantages which such competition will bring, we'll be as merry as a big sun flower. All things are ready for immediate work on this new road as the leases of the buildings along the route have been extended another year. It is due to say that we knew of this arrangement at least a week ago, but hesitated to again introduce the discussion of a subject that seemed to be worn threadbare, so our remarks at this time are merely those of congratulation.

An Acceptable Gift.

The Young Men's Christian Association was the recipient of a very appropriate Christmas gift in the shape of books. A few business men, or a "syndicate" as one of them expressed it, purchased nine copies of Geo. Eliot's works and placed them on the shelves of the library. We append a list of them for the information of readers: "Felix Holt," "Adam Bede," "Scenes of Clerical Life, and Silas Marner," "Essays," "Theophrastus Such, the Spanish Gypsy, Jubal and other Poems," "Romola," "The Mill on the Floss," "Daniel Deronda," "Middle-March."

The library is becoming more and more popular, and our citizens should see that it is well sustained. A new book case will be in position in a few days, and many more books can be accommodated then. The use of the books while at the rooms is free to all, and the privilege of taking them home is secured for the small sum of fifty cents a year.

—"The local paper," says Whitelaw Reid, "is the best read paper in the world. All the city papers cannot supply the place of the home paper. No other contain the marriages and deaths, to say nothing of divorces and births. No other relates the scandals happening before the doors of the people; no other paper gives the time for the next ball, picnic or political meeting; no other publishes the 'roll of honor' of the public school; no other discusses the affairs of the town and county, or gives in detail the local news, which cannot be obtained from any other source. 'Everybody reads it,' and that is why the little local paper is the best read paper in the world."

—Beginning on Wednesday, says the Altoona Tribune, all the mail matter carried over the Penn'a. R. R. as well as the branch roads, will be weighed by officials of the postoffice department. There will be a man for each postal car as well as express cars carrying mail pouches. Besides the record kept by the postoffice department, the railroad companies will also keep one of their own. This will be continued during a period of ninety days, and will serve as a basis for the government contracts with the lines for the coming four years.

—Judge Maynard and his wife, of Williamsport, are suing the proprietors of the Girard Hotel, Philadelphia, for the value of $1200 worth of diamonds which were stolen from Mrs. Maynard while a guest of the hotel.

Sons of Veterans.

The names of officers elected for the ensuing year by the Camp of the Sons of Veterans of this place were published several days ago. The following appointed officers, who were installed at the same time, were not then published. They were appointed by Capt. Samuel Gault, as follows:

Color Sergeant, Jno. Knisley.
Out-side Sentinel, Wm. Ryder.
In side Sentinel, John Gerberich.
Trustees, Samuel Gault, E. B. Rankin, Austin Ammerman.

It should be generally known that the State encampment of this organization is to meet in this place on the 22 of next July to continue in camp ten days. It will be an immense affair, far surpassing in attendance the State encampment of the G. A. R., last summer. The members of camp here say that the attendance will be between 7,000 and 8,000. It is not too early to begin making arrangements for their reception. Our town is famous for lavish and generous hospitality and the citizens will give the sons of veterans a royal welcome.

—Postmaster Johnson has some interesting articles in his big pocketbook. Among them is a printer's steel composing rule which he manufactured for himself in the halcyon days when he was a printer. He has carried it, without use, for twenty years. Another curiosity to the younger members of the community is a shinplaster, a small piece of paper money, value 12½ cents, issued many years ago by this borough and good only here and in the immediate surrounding country. It found its way to the dead letter office and last summer was sent to Mr. Johnston, with the request to have it redeemed if the borough would be willing to do so. Mr. Johnston answered that the borough was not prepared to redeem shinplasters, just now, but he would cheerfully pay 13 cents for it, which he accordingly did.

The Holidays for 1885.

For the year 1885 days and dates of important events, anniversaries and holidays will fall as follows: Septuagesima, Sunday, Feb. 1st; St. Valentine's Day, Saturday, February 14th; Shrove Tuesday, (Fastnacht) February 17th; Ash Wednesday, February 18th; Washington's birthday, February 22d; First Sunday in Lent, February 22d; St. Patrick's day, Tuesday, March 18th; Palm Sunday, March 29th; Good Friday, April 3d; Easter Sunday, April 5th; Low Sunday, April 12th; Rogation Sunday, May 10th; Assension day, Thursday, May 14th; Decoration day, Saturday, May 30; Trinity Sunday, May 31st; Corpus Christi, Thursday, June 4th; Independence day, Saturday, July 4th; First Sunday of Advent, November 19th; Christmas, Friday, December 25th.

—While so many industries in all parts of the United States are idle it is a great relief to turn to that hive of industry, the Bellefonte Iron and Nail Company. Under a great pressure of orders the works are running at their fullest capacity day and night. About $7,000 worth of new machinery has recently been put in the factory and the importance of this great enterprise is constantly increasing. While the gentlemen connected with this company are all calculated to inspire the confidence of those who have dealings with them, the true secret of their success must be in the fact that the quality of the nail manufactured is very superior and the demand for it correspondingly great.

—Centre county's new sheriff had his first official experience on Monday night, January 5. He searched through every street and highway of Milesburg to regain a kidnapped mare and filly that had been taken from Dr. Jno. Bilger's stable during the latter's absence, the purloiner perhaps expecting to get clear of paying the Doctor's little bill. It was finally settled by the abducting party giving a bond of security for the payment of the amount, and the sheriff allowed him to keep the stock.

New Goods!

SECHLER & CO.

Proprietors of the only complete grocery in Centre county, announce to the people of the county that they are now receiving Fresh, New Goods for the Winter Season OF 1885.

Stock Complete! Nothing Wanting!

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome; We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

We make special mention of the above lines of goods because they are all leading articles at this season of the year. In other lines our stock is equally fresh and complete.

We buy the Best Goods and sell at the Lowest Figures.

Call in and inspect our No. 1 goods. Then you will know where to purchase when your cupboard needs replenishing.

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—How's your cold? Our's is flourishing finely.

—The weather behaves quite outrageously of late.

—Ice is being sent from Williamsport to fill Philadelphia ice houses.

—Deputy United States Marshal Olewine says that his prisoner, Isaac Myers, obtained the necessary $500 bail and is now at liberty.

—Rev. J. T. Young, pastor of the Presbyterian church of East Conemaugh, died at the pastoral residence in Franklin borough, Cambria county, at 6:30 o'clock on Sunday morning.

—On Saturday Mr. John B. Goheen, a resident of Pennsylvania Furnace, was a visitor in town, accompanied by another gentleman whose name we did not learn. But both gentlemen are just about as pleasant to meet as any that can be found in five counties.

—Governor Pattison has named Colonel H. Lacey Goddard, of Philadelphia, inspector general of the National Guard, as the Pennsylvania aid to General P. H. Sheridan, chief marshal of the day on the occasion o the dedication of the Washington monument.

—The trial of Curtin McClain, of Orbinsonia, Pa., charged with the murder of William Smearman, of Huntingdon, Pa., at the Juniata Valley campmeeting grounds on the 22df of August last, was commenced at Lewistown, in the court of Mifflin county on Tuesday.

—The revival meeting in the United Brethren church continues with increased interest. The church is crowded nightly. Fifteen or sixteen persons have professed a saving faith in their Redeemer. We hear Rev. Mr. Somers, the revivalist, spoken of in the highest terms of praise.

—Colonel Austin Curtin, of Post 261, Milesburg, Centre county, and Senior Vice Commander of G. A. R., is mentioned as a prominent candidate for the office of Department Commander at the next encampment which will be held at Harrisburg on February 10.—Philipsburg Journal.

—One hundred dollars in cash was stolen from a house at Hannah Furnace on Sunday night while the occupants were at church. The thieves pried open a window and thus affected an entrance. Moral—Always go to church, but don't leave so much loose cash in the house to tempt thieves.

—Three hundred or four hundred people gathered at the rink on Tuesday evening. The skating was enjoyable, and the acrobatic and fancy skating performances of Harry Miller and Alfred Harper were excellent There seems to be nothing they fail to do on the rollers. The spectators applauded enthusiastically.

—The almanac issued by the Baltimore Sun is a valuable publication, containing a great amount of information such as every man, woman and child should have at hand. It is impossible to commit all these statistics to memory and the possessor of the almanac has them in a convenient, condensed form.

—We exceedingly regret to record an accident which occurred to Mr. James Potter of the firm of Harris & Potter, Wednesday morning at Centre Hall. His horse ran away throwing him from the conveyance and breaking the cap of one knee in three places. The accident, although not serious, will be painful and troublesome. Friends went to Centre Hall in a carriage at noon to convey him home.

—The family of Mr. George Davis living on Spruce street, between Fifth and Sixth, has been sadly bereaved the past week in the loss of two bright little children, who died from a severe attack of scarlet fever. Three more of their children are down with the same disease but hopes of their recovery are entertained, as they have passed through the severest stage of the fever.—Philipsburg Journal.

—Mr. Richard Garman was out driving on Wednesday. Just as he attempted to climb into the buggy, in front of Dr. Hoy's office, the horse started and running up High street and around the Court House, made a bee-line toward the stable. Before the stable was reached, however, the buggy was demolished and the horse was free of any encumbrance in the way of harness. We sympathise with Richard in the sad termination of his pleasure, and would urge our skillful watch-maker to be more careful hereafter in his management of fiery steeds.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Crime in Large Cities—The New Cable—Rapid Growth of New York—Increase of Alcoholism, Etc., Etc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12th, 1885.

CRIME IN CITIES.

It may not be that there are worse crimes committed in cities than in country communities; but in certain localities, according to population, there is certainly vastly more of crime, and of greater variety than is possible to appear in country or village life. The herding together of poor and ignorant humanity in close quarters, such as is the tenement life in New York, tends to the development of the baser passions, of vicious habits, and to many forms of criminality.

Honest citizens everywhere decry crime, and the criminal classes, and call on the law to mete out the severest punishment, and when the law is satisfied then they seem to be satisfied. Now, we say that there is something fundamentally wrong in the very organization of society, or else there could not be such a fearful volume of criminality in every large community. Both the letter and spirit of our municipal laws are at fault. We look to the ultimates when we should begin with the primaries. That "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is no more true of physical infirmities than of moral leprosy. To prevent the conditions that breed crime should be the primary object, and effect, of humane and Christian laws.

The facts of figures are very stubborn, and sometimes are more efficacious than a sermon in awakening men to convictions of truth and duty. In the year 1883 there were 70,124 arrests for crime in the city of New York. In 1884 there were 70,821 arrests, making an average per week of over fourteen hundred persons. Just think! many times the number of the adult population of Centre county are every year arrested for crime in the city of New York.

Yet it must not be thought that New York is permeated through and and through with criminality. It should be remembered that this great city has two millions of inhabitants, and that above the villainous dregs of the lower there is an upper strata of men and women who are noted, the world over, for the noblest qualities that enrich and adorn humanity.

THE MACKEY-BENNETT CABLE.

For great enterprises, and expeditiously carried out, New York is always in the lead. Before other cities get through the discussion of new projects New York has them carried to completion. The New Ocean Cable laid through the personal enterprise of Mr. Bennett, of the Herald, and the millionaire Mackey, is already a pronounced success, and is worrying not a little the proud and arrogant capitalists of the old cable monoply. On this new line it requires but an average of four minutes and fifty-seven seconds for an ordinary business message to be sent to London or Liverpool; and the rates are very low.

THE GROWTH OF NEW YORK.

The annual increase of buildings in New York is a matter of wonder even to its citizens. Notwithstanding that Hoboken, Jersey City, Brooklyn, large portions of Staten Island and Long Island, and all the surrounding country for miles distant, may virtually be called New York as regards business and social conditions, yet the development of the city within its own narrow limits is most surprising. Note its progress in one decade: In 1874 the cost of the new buildings was $16,667,414, and during the one year of 1884 the plans filed for new buildings were at the estimated cost of $44,160,423. The increase is as much marked in architectural elegance as in number.

FIRE LOSSES.

Some organized system to prevent such a frequency of destructive fires in towns and cities would indeed be a blessing, as property destroyed by fire is a total loss to the world. The loss by fire last year in New York city alone reached the large amount of $3,450,379.

ALCOHOLISM.

The increase of alcoholism in all our large cities is to such a fearful extent that it should bring lamentation and mourning into the souls of all good men and women, and awaken all the moral, spiritual and legal forces of the land for its suppression. For intoxication and disorderly conduct there were 27,093 arrests in this city during the past year, and 2,985 cases of drunkenness taken to the Bellevue Hospital, and of this number nine hundred and eighty-five were females.

"—a sight most pitiful,"

For relief in this direction there is now a very different organized movement, both in this city and in Brooklyn, and under the leadership of the Christian philanthropist, Mr. Horace Waters, and a few kindred souls, good results in the cause of temperance, and of the consequent suppression of crime and of our national vice of intemperance, may be anticipated.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

This is growing better all the time. Everybody is looking to a revival of business at very early date. The necessities and laws of commerce will not stand much "fooling with" by politicians. Even with Cleveland and the Democratic party at the helm the ship of State is not going to be utterly wrecked this time, and will soon get out of the shallow waters of narrow partisanship, and sail smoothly once more upon the broad sea of national prosperity.

Tribute of Respect.

By resolution, the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Sunday school, of Bellefonte, unanimously adopted the following with reference to Rev. S. E. Furst, A. M., and his sister, Mrs. Sarah A. Fair, viz:

"By the laws of nature we are destined to changes. Human hearts and minds are not in every respect the same to day that they were yesterday. Though we may be unconscious of it, we have either taken a step higher or sunk that much lower. The same rule governs all things with which man has to do. Society either is bettered by the influences that are brought to bear on it, or its standard is lowered. Every individual who is received into a community, and becomes part of it, makes an indelible impress either for good or for evil; and just to the extent that he or she is a master spirit, the impression is made deep and lasting. How watchful, then, we should be, either as an organization or as individuals, whom we receive to share our privileges and how loth we should be to part with those that have proven themselves worthy, able and willing to help us onward and upward.

"This Sabbath school and its head the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church of Bellefonte, have just been called on to part with two such master spirits—two most estimable and earnest Christian workers, in the persons of our late pastor, Rev. S. E. Furst, A. M., and his sister, Mrs. Sarah A. Fair, who have left an impress on this organization and on this community, for good, that time cannot remove. We feel that we can, with just pride, point to our late pastor and his sister as long esteemed by all and loved most by those that knew them best. Our congregation and Sabbath school are looked upon with favorable recognition to-day by our sister denominations such as we never had before; and in every way are better understood and esteemed as an organization. In view of all these facts, we feel that we have sustained a great loss, and it is with sincere regret that we have been called on to sever our connections as pastor and people and as co-laborers in the Lord is our organizations and in this community; but it is with the hope that our loss will be the gain of another and better field than ours, in our Master's cause; and that we still will be able to work for one great common cause—the restoration of fallen man; and that the Great Head of the church will guide them and us in the right paths, and again favor us with an acceptable and efficient leader."

Celebrating the Reformation.

Rev. Mr. Delong, of the Reformed church, has arranged for an interesting service in his church next Sunday morning at the usual hour, 10:30 o'clock. It will be in the nature of a commemoration and celebration of the Reformation of the Sixteenth century. Rev. Mr. Delong will take for his subject "The Life and Character of John Calvin, the Reformer," and will surely treat the topic in a masterly manner as he has devoted much time and thought to a study and consideration of all that relates to Calvin, who was certainly one of the leading spirits in the religious reformation and to whose memory so many in this community look back with special interest and veneration.

—Deputy United States Marshal Olewine, of Philipsburg, was in Bellefonte Monday, having in charge a man named Isaac Myers, also of Philipsburg. Mr. Myers was arrested and taken to Pittsburg on a somewhat serious offense, where he had a hearing before United States Commissioner S. C. McCandless. His bail was fixed at $500 and as Myers stated that he could obtain bail in this place he was accordingly brought here for that purpose. Myers is a railroad engineer and said to be a respectable man. He committed his offense (that of sending a letter containing objectionable matter through the mails) in ignorance of the law on the subject and really to effect what he considered to be a commendable purpose.

Telephone Line in Bedford County

The poles are now being got out for a telephone line in Bedford county. When completed it will certainly be of very great advantage to the citizens of Bedford county. The line will extend from Pleasantville to Bedford, taking in the towns of Fishertown, Cessna and various other points in the northern part of the county. By an extension of this line from Bedford to Everett, a distance of eight miles, connection could be made with all the principal eastern cities by way of Huntingdon. Until the gap is filled it is probable that the telephone will connect with one of the Bedford telegraph offices.—Altoona Tribune.

—The Presbyterians of this place held their annual congregational meeting on Tuesday afternoon.

—Among the recent startling and most surprising occurrences in Northumberland county is the forced sale of the Soldier's Monument at Sunbury for work done thereon and material supplied by the contractors. The monument consists of a handsome white granite shaft on a heavy pedestal surrounded with the uniformed figure of Colonel James Cameron, brother of ex-Senator Simon Cameron. Its height is over thirty feet, and it stands on the East end of the public square or park on Market Street. It was dedicated on the Fourth of July, 1878, General James A. Beaver being the orator of the occasion. The claim against it was $1800, held by contractors in Philadelphia, and placed in the hands of Dill & Beale, of Lewisburg, for collection. The writ of execution is now in the hands of the Sheriff, and has been stayed by John B. Packer, who paid half the claim and promised that the remainder would be raised in a short time. The subject of its sale has created considerable excitement, as the monument was supposed to have been paid for at the time of its dedication. It was raised in honor of the dead soldiers of Northumberland County.—Lewisburg Saturday News.

Sudden Death of Phebe Yarnell.

Mrs. Yarnell was the widow of Thos. Yarnell, who formerly lived in Boggs township, this county, and was familiarly known as "Aunt Phebe." She was a "Phebe" according to Paul, helping in the Gospel work and induced many to accept Christ as their Saviour, and encouraged others to persevere faithfully in their Christain profession. Her pious influence was a great help to Messiah's Church and its pastor, and in this respect her departure will be keenly felt. She was a "Dorcas," making herself useful in needle-work, in which she was skilled and in this wise, too, will be much missed by them among who she moved. Having been feeble in health for many years, she took a heavy cold which settled on her lungs, and ended her career in a few days. She departed this life on the night of the 31st of Dec., 1884, and her funeral was conducted from the residence of her oldest son, Jacob, who very hospitably entertained all who attended. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Zeigler, assisted by Rev. M. L. Jackson. She was 67 years, 9 months and 1 day. J. ZEIGLER.

—The delay in completing the railroad bridge across Spring creek is caused by an injunction served upon the company by the owner of the property, restraining them from building a bridge of that kind. The spiles it is believed, will obstruct the passage of ice and timber washed down the creek in the spring floods or at other times when the water is high, It is really surprising that the railroad company should undertake to build such a bridge at that place and it is not creditable to any of the parties concerned in its construction. A substantial iron bridge is what should be built.

—A lady who was walking across Berwind, White & Co's switch toward the track of the Bald Eagle Valley Railroad Monday morning at the time of the arrival of the 9:45 o'clock train narrowly escaped being run over. She was just about to step on the track in front of the train when a bystander rushed to her and pulled her back. She is evidently somewhat deaf and did not see the train.

—The most ingenius combination calendar and almanac we have received is the one issued by Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. It is in the shape of an ordinary calendar, but by means of ingeniusly contrived figures it gives all the information in regard to the moon, rising and setting of the sun, &c., that can be found in the most comprehensive almanac.

—Very handsome illustrated calendars are numerous this year. Every business firm of importance issues one as an advertisement.

Personal Pencilings.

Miss Maggie Alexander, of Millheim, is quite ill.

Mr. Morris Swartz returned last Thursday to school at Carlisle.

Mr. Andy Bell, of this borough, is visiting friends in Curwensville.

Mr. Rupp, of Linden Hall, is going to Millheim to open a meat market.

Mrs. Harry Brew, of Tyrone, visited friends in Curwensville last week.

Judge Jno. H. Orvis arrived home last Thursday from his recent trip to Ohio.

Miss Margaret Pruner is visiting her niece, Mrs. A. C. Moyer, in Osceola.

Dr. E. E. Higbee's term as State Superintendent of public instruction will expire in April.

Miss Thomas, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her friend, Miss Jennie Reynolds, on High street.

Rev. Mr. Hewitt went to State College on Sunday afternoon to officiate at the services in that institution.

Miss Sarah Bradley is in the Telephone Exchange once again, after a visit of more than a week in Renovo.

George Davis, of Philipsburg, has recently lost two children from scarlet fever and three others are very ill.

Mr. Alva Grow, formerly of Lock Haven and now of Philadelphia, made his appearance in Bellefonte on Thursday.

Prothonotary Brett and his clerk, Mr. L. A. Schaeffer, are keeping the affairs of their office in apple pie order.

Mr. Geo. Bible is at home again, having returned on Thursday evening from Renov—; oh, we mean Philadelphia.

Jeremiah Hoy, an old gentleman residing west of Madisonburg, was the victim of a slight stroke of paralysis the other day.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carscaddon, of Williamsport, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Fleming, last week, departing Monday morning.

Mr. Al. Haupt just came home from a visit to Clearfield and Philipsburg. He expects to return to Philipsburg this week where he will resume his position as clerk in the Potter House.

Mr. Rembrandt Peale, son of Hon. S. R. Peale, of Lock Haven, who went to Philadelphia a week ago on his wedding tour, is lying very ill in that city suffering from an attack of pneumonia.

Mrs. D. M. Elmore and daughter, who have been visiting during the past week at the home of Mrs. E's mother, Mrs. W. D. Bailey, departed again on Monday for Newberry, Lycoming., Pa.

Col. James Rutan, marshall of the western district of Pennsylvania, was in town last week. He came here from Harrisburg where we presume he has been helping the Solons to open the legislature.

Mr. Charlie Vogan, one of the proprietors of the skating rink, was in town Monday and while here received a telegram stating that his store and dwelling house at Bradford, Pa., had been destroyed by fire, his family narrowly escaping the flames. He departed for Bradford on the first train.

Miss Emma Crosthwaite, who for many years has been engaged as compositor in the Watchman office, severed her connection with the office last Saturday night and has been succeeded by Miss Nannie Schrock. This change on the part of Miss Emma is, we understand, but a harbinger of another very delightful change to be made by her in a few days. But we have no permission to say anything about it and will keep mum, but we wish her much joy, anyway.

—The Lock Haven Express has the following:

Thos N. Magee and family, after a brief visit among friends in this city and county, will locate in Bellefonte, where he proposes to engage in the grocery business. Our Bellefonte neighbors will find in Mr. Magee and family a valuable acquisition to their town, and we wish him abundant success in his enterprise.

The Lock Haven Democrat says that Mr. Magee is a relative of Mr. J. C. Harper, ex-prothonotary of this county, and the two gentlemen expect to engage in the grocery business.
